Investigation of death revitalized

Special task force established

On March 23rd Cumberland County District Attorney Eakin announced that in conjunction with Perry County District Attorney Scott Cramer, the investigation of the 1980 death of Kathy Grove is being revitalized. A special task force is being established to include the prosecutors office, East Pennsboro Township police, and experienced homicide investigators from the State Police.

"New developments in the field of forensic evidence examination has given new direction to the investigation. And I'm optimistic about where these matters will lead us. I believe the renewal of our efforts at this time may be quite fruitful. While we never closed the file we are moving this inquiry from the back burner to the front burner due to these new developments." Said J. Michael Eakin.

Grove was last seen alive August 2, 1980 leaving an after hours club in East Pennsboro Township. Her death has been classified by police as murder.

Request for 250-unit park premature

Clean-up dates set

By Mary Lou Bytof

The Carroll Township Board of Supervisors Tuesday night regarded a York County Planning Commission's request for a 250-unit mobile home park as premature.

Western Village, or Shelly's Mobile Home Park, is to be located south of Dillsburg along U.S. Route 15 in both Carroll and Franklin Townships.

The supervisors also received another letter concerning the mobile home park. In that letter, the Citizens Hose Company requested an additional entrance way or access to the proposed park.

"Any process the county has implemented is premature as far as the township is concerned," board Chairman Gary Reihart said.

The board agreed to send a letter expressing its opinion along with the fire company's recommendation to the York County Planning Commission and the Department of Environmental Resources.

In a smaller development, 11 families in Mountainview Estates along Greenhouse Road finally may have their road dedicated to the township.

The supervisors directed the solicitor to prepare a deed of dedication for the 560 feet of Greenhouse Road which lies within the township.

The road is owned by the original developers, one of whom is deceased and another who has left the area, the supervisors said. While the heir to the deceased partner was located, the whereabouts of the other partner is unknown to the supervisors. The road is approximately 14 years-old, Supervisor Reihart estimated.

In other business, the board set the spring clean-up dates for Friday, May 5 from noon to 8 p.m., and Saturday, May 6 from 8 a.m. to noon.

J.L. Howard was awarded the collection contract at $450 per regular load, and $300 per load of appliances and metals only. No liquids will be collected.

The board decided to transfer $40,000 of the $57,000 State Fund Money it received to a certificate of deposit (CD). That money is earmarked to build roads, Reihart said.

The supervisors also discussed abandoning four township roadways. According to the supervisors, none of the following roads have been maintained: Hidden Springs Road beyond the gravel, Silco Road, the dirt part of Carroll Drive, and Locust Lane.

In addition to old roads, the township has the original red lights and poles from Route 15 that are now for sale. According to Supervisor Larry Eichelberger, the poles are in good shape and may be useful to another community.

ROAD TO BE CLOSED

The Citizens Hose Company will close part of Dogwood Lane from the Mountain Road intersection to the Hess property on Saturday April 8 and 15 from 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

On those days, the company will burn a house that was donated to them for practice drills, according to Mark Ryder of Citizens Hose.

The decision to close the road was based on the concern for public safety and to accommodate to fire equipment.

Dillsburg ambulance personnel rush an auto accident victim to Life Lion helicopter waiting to transport to Harrisburg Hospital. The 6:43 pm crash on Rt. 74 near Shillito's had traffic blocked for nearly two hours. Details on page two.

Northern indoor colorguard holds four first places

The Northern Indoor Colorguard is coming to the end of quite an excellent season. The Guard is under the direction of Ed Castelli, with the assistance of Deb Washburn. Fifteen girls ranging from 9th to 12th grade make up the colorguard.

The Guard holds four first place trophies for performances at Red Land, Central Columbia, Williamsport, Maryland, and North Hagerstown, Maryland. They also hold a second place trophy from the Lower Dauphin competition and a third place trophy for their performance at Greencastle-Antrim.

Concert

The Messiah College Orchestra, under the direction of Assistant Professor of Music, Dr. Richard Roberson, will present a concert at 3 p.m. Sunday, April 16 in Miller Auditorium located in the Climenhaga Fine Arts Center.

The Orchestra will perform "Ma Mere Poye" by Maurice Ravel and "Mass in Time of War" by Franz Josef Hayden. The Hayden piece, performed with the Messiah College Concert Choir and conducted by Larry Landis, also an Assistant Professor of Music, will feature various student soloists.

Their performance is a six minute production comprised of "Being Alive" and "What Were We Thinking Of," two songs by the ever popular Barbara Streisand.

K.I.D.A. State Championships will be held on Saturday, April 8 at Mount St. Mary's College in Emmitsburg, Maryland.

The Colorguard is holding a show for parents, band boosters, administrators and friends on April 11 at 7:30 in the High School gym.

Spring Bus Trip

"PAWS" is sponsoring a do-as-you please bus trip to New York City on Saturday, May 13. The bus will depart from the Harrisburg East Mall at 7 a.m. You will be unloaded at Radio City Music Hall and are free to do whatever you please until 8 p.m. at which time the bus will depart for return to Harrisburg.

The cost of this fun-filled one day event is $23.00 per person. Your check must accompany your reservation to: "PAWS"-New York, P.O. Box 344, Federal Square Station, Harrisburg, Pa. 17108. For further details, call 432-2288.

Scholarships

Do you like the outdoors? Would you like to learn about conserving fields, forests, water and wildlife?

The York County Conservation District will be awarding scholarships to attend the 1989 Penn State Conservation Leadership Schools. The Primary School runs July 2-15 and a second school runs July 16-29. An advanced school runs August 3-12.

The Conservation Leadership Schools are two-week resident programs for high school students interested in natural resource management, conservation, and solutions to environmental problems.

Students interested must complete an application form and submit a letter stating their qualifications and why they would like to attend the Conservation Leadership School, and a letter of reference from a teacher, to the York County Conservation District not later than May 11th.

Successful candidates will be notified by mail, and would be responsible for their own transportation to and from camp.

Applications and information are available by calling the Conservation District Office, 118 Pleasant Acres Road, York, Pa. 17402, phone 771-9430.

Snell Accepted at Grace College

The administration of Grace College has announced that a local student, Autumn Tanya Snell, has been accepted for admission for the upcoming year. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Richard Snell of Dillsburg.

Grace College is an accredited four-year evangelical Christian liberal arts college located in Winona Lake, Indiana. The college is dedicated to serious academic stimulation and the physical, spiritual, and social development of its students. Grace offers 43 fields of study in languages and literature, social sciences, fine arts, religion and philosophy, natural sciences, and education.

Sharing the Grace campus is Grace Theological Seminary, which has established an international reputation for excellence in training leaders for various evangelical Christian ministries. Other Grace seminary campuses are located in Long Beach, California, and near Macon in southern France.

Youth For Understanding International Exchange

Mr. & Mrs. Eugene and Theresa Maclay will be learning about the culture and language of Germany without ever leaving Lewisberry.

Through Youth for Understanding (YFU) International Exchange, the Maclay family will be welcoming into their home an exchange student from Germany.

Ragnar Koenemann will be staying with the Maclay family on YFU's year program. During his stay Ragnar will be at Northern Senior High School in Dillsburg.

Ragnar's extra-curricular interests include basketball, soccer, and handball. The Maclay family will be taking an active role in encouraging their new son to participate in school and community activities.

Hosting will offer the Maclay family an opportunity to become closer to a family as they share their daily lives and American culture with Ragnar. In addition, the entire family will learn about Ragnar's food, music, customs and holidays as they exchange ideas, stories and photos with their newest family member.

The Maclay family is one of nearly 4,000 families throughout the United States who this year will host an exchange student through YFU.

Hosting through YFU is open to all families, regardless of size, composition or economic background, who are willing to provide a family environment for exchange students ages 15-18, from 27 countries around the world.

YFU also offers programs for American students to live and study abroad and is responsible for the Sport for Understanding (SFU) summer program. The council on standards for International Educational travel recognizes YFU as an approved international student exchange program.

Youth for Understanding is a nonprofit, educational organization dedicated to international study and world peace. YFU carries out one of the world's oldest and largest international youth programs. Founded in 1951, YFU is based in more than two dozen countries with 13 regional offices in the United States, an international center in Washington, D.C., a worldwide staff of 250 professionals and 3,000 dedicated volunteers.

Mock Trial Team Finishes Second in District Competition

Northern High School's mock trial team competed successfully for the second year as they finished second in the District Competition. They defeated both Dallastown Area and Susquehannock High School. In the overall scoring they placed second to William Penn High School of York.

The case this year concerned the "social host liability law" with regards to the liability of a host when giving a party in their home. The members of the team played the role of both the lawyers and witnesses as they argued for the plaintiff and the defendant in the competition. It is noteworthy that the team won both sides of their argument in each case.

The mock trial team was aided in their preparation for the competition by Mr. William D. Schrack III, attorney at law, of Dillsburg. Next year's team returns five members as Angi Smith, Jeff Dillen, and Jim Shaffer will graduate. Prospects for a strong team next year appear very good.

MOCK TRIAL TEAM - Seated, Brian Stwalley, Jeff Dillen and James Schaffer. Standing, Jennifer Schrack, Penny Rebert, Erica Hauser, Kyra Redslob and Angela Smith.

Dear Editor,

I am writing concerning the constitutional amendment that the voters will vote on in May concerning some major changes in state's local tax code. I and likely others in the area recently received a mailing on this by State Senator John D. Hopper. After reading this I have about decided that this would be a bad amendment. It has been promoted as a way to lower property taxes, which I favor. But this law would not necessarily do that, since there are loopholes in the law that would allow an increase in personal income taxes without necessarily lowering property taxes.

So most taxing district would raise the income tax but not lower property taxes. Also unearned income on interest from bank accounts stock dividends could be taxed for the first time. Counties could improve a sales tax. Capital gains could be taxed, as for example when you sell your home, or stocks or bonds or other investments.

According to Hopper the rest of the state will bail out Philadelphia to the tune of about $78 million per year.

Do you think you are gag paying through tax now? Then vote yes. But if you feel as I do that we are already vastly overtaxed, then certainly vote no.

Sincerely,
Daniel L. Hoover

Polar Bears Drop Openers

by John Middlekauff

While football and basketball are perhaps more physically demanding, at least you aren't painted into a corner by old mother nature. The same can't be said about high school baseball. In preparing for the upcoming season, there is only so much that can be accomplished in the gymnasium.

For the Northern High Baseball Team and Coach Wayne Smith, the early spring has not been at all beneficial. Poor weather has kept the team from using the diamond at Wolf Field and has wiped out scrimmages that were planned. But the season has begun, and Northern's shortcomings have been clearly marked.

In the season opener (3/27), the Polar Bears ran head-on into a hot pitcher at Cedar Cliff and paid the price. The Colts behind the one hit pitching of Darryl Gavlick. A senior left-hander, Gavlick struck out seven and walked one in a 1-0-0 whitewash halted in the bottom of the fifth by the P.L.A.'s 10-run rule. Northern first baseman Andy Ritter was the only Polar Bear to get a hit off Mr. Gavlick. Scott Aepli picked up the loss for the powerless Bears.

On Wednesday, March 29, the Bears hosted the usually very tough Patriots from Red Land, and again displayed a lack of offense as they dropped an 8-1 verdict. A trio of Red Land pitchers led by Aaron Walter kept Northern in check. Offensively, Red Land got all the runs they would need in the second inning. The big blow in the second, was a two-run homerun by right-fielder Scott Beamer. Northern left-hander Andy Ritter was the victim of this Patriot uprising as the Bears dropped their second contest. Still it must come back the beginning of this article. Northern hasn't had much chance to work outside, and Coach Smith has been forced to treat these first two games as scrimmages.

Northern will attempt to get itself on the winning path as they head into divisional play beginning this week. On Tuesday (4/04) the Bears travel to West Perry to take on the tough Mustangs Friday, (4/06), Northern will host the Bulldogs of Big Spring in a 4:00 p.m. contest.

Lady Polar Bears Lose Two

by John Middlekauff

Facing the same kind of uncooperative weather as their male counterparts, Northern High's Girls Softball team showing a lack of consistency has dropped its first two games of the season.

In its opener with Cedar Cliff (3/27), the Lady Bears opened the scoring, but were knocked back on their haunches 14-3, as the Lady Colts scored seven in the second and three in the third. Northern added a single run in the fifth, but Cedar Cliff scored four in the sixth to put an end to the contest due to the 10-run rule.

For its second game, Northern travelled to Red Land (3/29) and got bounced again 11-1. Again the Lady Bears opened the scoring, but watched helplessly as the Patriots scored in every inning before the contest was halted. Northern's offense was limited to just three hits in this five inning contest and that seems to underscore the Lady Polar Bear's early problems. The biggest concern facing Northern mentor Bruce Sheaffer, is finding the right mix. With April Myer's decision not to pursue softball this year, and with Gretchen Klaus in Europe on a school trip, Coach Sheaffer has been forced to call on several freshmen to fill in. This means that untried players have to play with and against seniors with much more experience. Add to this the already mentioned weather problems, and it is simple to understand the Northern dilemma. Still, there is plenty of time, and with a lot of patience and decent weather-the Lady Bears will prevail.

Head Coach Lee Wilson is certainly "hoping for a successful season in 1989," and with a squad of predominantly seniors there should be some experience to count on.

Leading the way for the Polar Bears will be Senior Steve Mayhew. Not only will Steve be Northern's number one singles player, but he will also team up with fellow senior Dan Piscotty or Junior Kris Graf as the number one doubles duo. Mr. Mayhew also has the distinction of being Northern's only four year player on this year's squad.

Northern Track Opener A Success

by John Middlekauff

While the Northern track official opener with Lower Dauphin was scratched due to bad weather, both the boys and girls left little doubt as to their strength as they trampled visiting Susquehanna Monday (4/03).

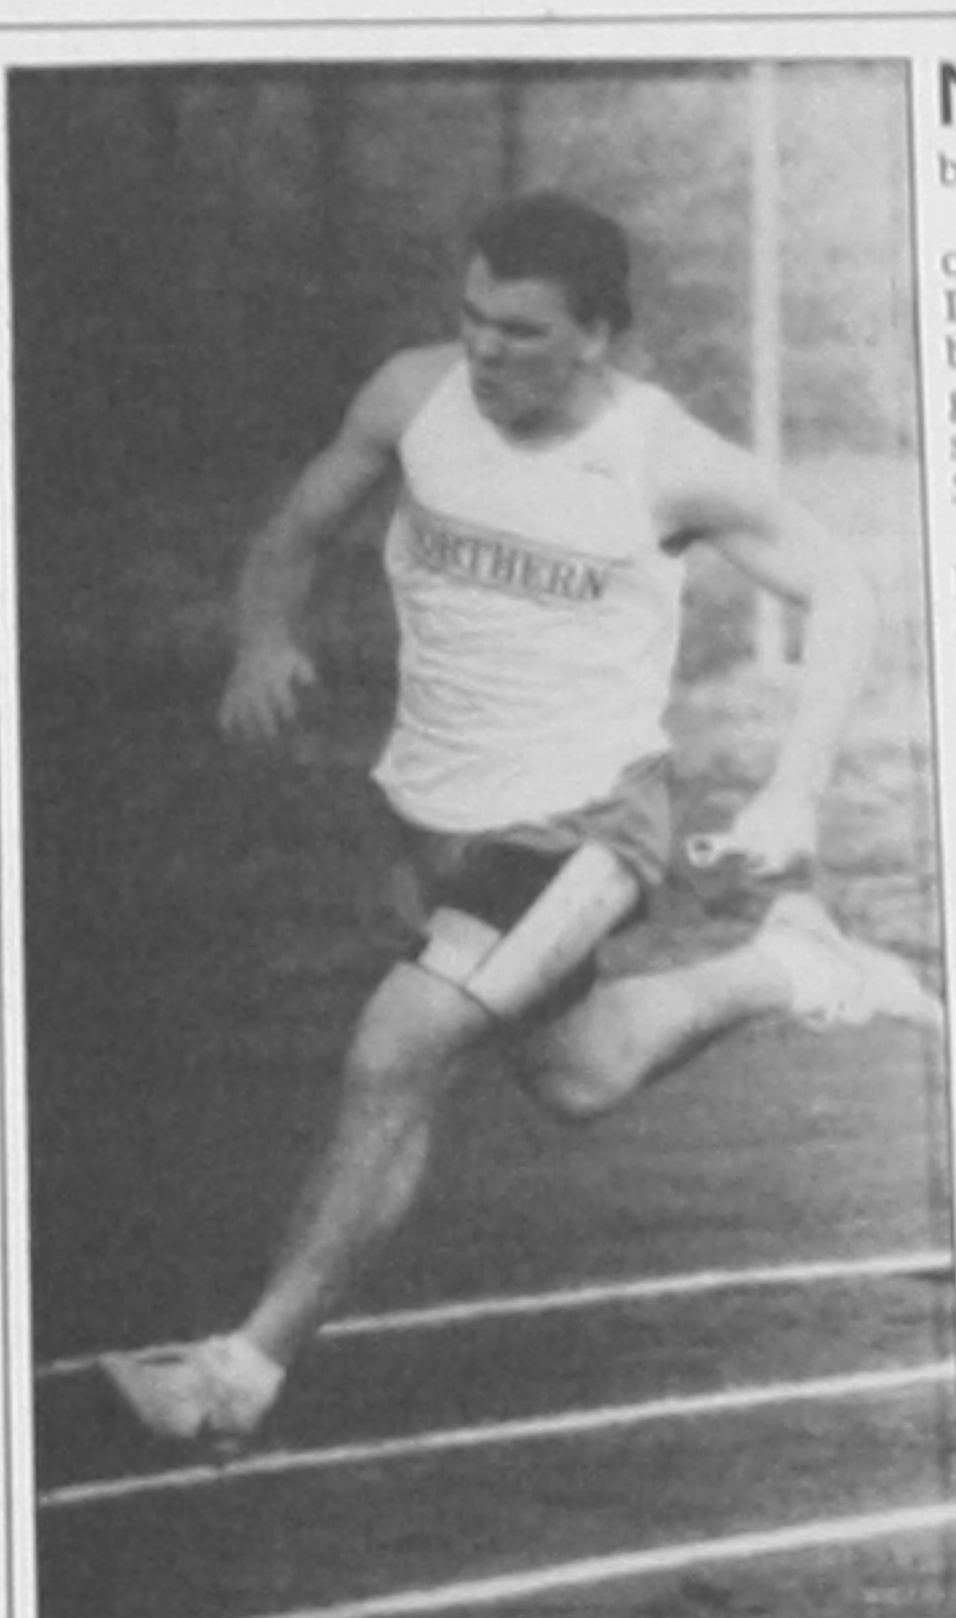

While the Lady Bears were handling their opponents 99 to 42, the Northern gentlemen thrashed their Blackhawk rivals 112 to 38. Make no mistake, Susquehanna is not one of Division III's track powers, but Northern has a fine stable of excellent runners. The Polar Bears' weight people are no sloughs either.

Leading the way for the Polar Bears was Senior Matt Aeneew. Matt finished first in the 300 meter intermediate hurdles and the 1600 meter or mile run. He also anchored the winning 3200 meter relay team and was the lead-off runner on the successful 1600 meter relay team.

For the Lady Bears, they were paced by a couple of individuals. Tanya Biller won both the 1600 meter and 3200 meter runs, and was the leadoff runner on the successful 3200 meter relay team. Nancy Jacoby won the 100 and 200 meter dashes, anchored the victorious 400 meter relay, and headed the also successful 1600 meter relay team.

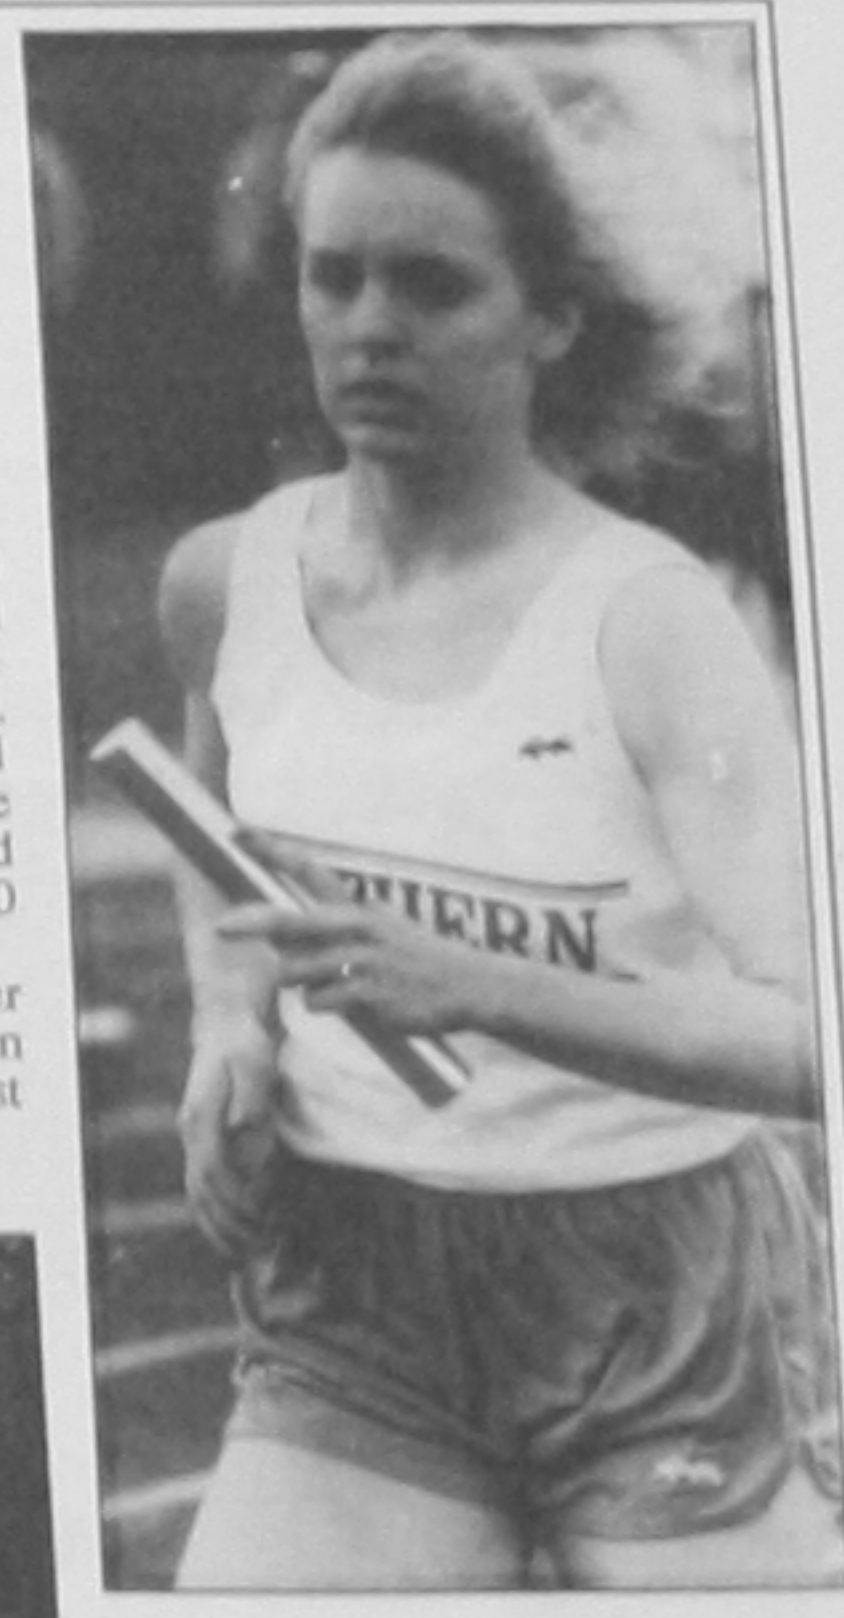

Northern next takes on Lower Dauphin in a makeup meet on Tuesday (4/04) and then will host Camp Hill on Thursday (4/06)

The Northern boys easily handled Susquehanna 112 to 38.

Autumn McFate placed 1st in girls shot put.

Michelle Mayhew runs her leg of the 400 relay.

Track and Field at the high school are a thrill to watch.

Is not the Olympics but these players take the competition very seriously. If you get a chance this spring, get out and cheer on the team.

Q. Once and for all, what is Cher's real last name? Cookie B., Madison, Wis.
A. Cher's father's name was John Sarkisian. However, when Cher was very young, she was adopted by her mother's fifth husband, Gilbert La Pierre, and she kept that name until she married Sonny Bono.

Q. Could you please tell me what the musical statue is of my favorite soap actor Michael Damian of "The Young & the Restless"? Chloe, Sanford, Fla.

A. Michael Damian, who plays the rising rock star Danny Romalotti on the CBS soaper, just recently entered the "Rock On" video contest. The single "Rock On," his new Cypress Records (distributed by A&M) single from the album of the same name, is the first to be released from the album, which features cuts by Van Morrison, R.E.M., and Fee Waybill. The "Rock On" video displays the different parts of my personality," says Michael. "It's a picture of a man at his best."

Q. Why are they releasing "Brenda Starr"? I heard the movie is so bad, it's not going to do much to boost Brooke Shields' slow-moving career. If anything, it'll make it worse. What have you heard? Roseanne W., Troy, N.Y.
A. Well, Roseanne, they tell me that with some judicious editing, "Brenda Starr" may make it past the initial thumbs-down given to it. Those who saw the flick before it was put on the shelf. As for Brooke's career, someone close to the scene suggested she inform her agent that she wants movies that aren't geared to highlight her breathtaking good looks but, instead, help her develop as an actor.

Q. What's with Tom Selleck's movie career? Except for "Three Men and a Cradle" which he shared with Ted Danson, he's made one film bomb after another. His last one, "Her Alibi," was so bad, I was embarrassed for him. Rhoda W., Los Angeles, Calif.
A. You're not alone in wondering why he hasn't clicked in flicks. One thought heard around Hollywood is that he's been "Magnum" for so long, he automatically shifts into that role on the big screen. He needs more scripts like "Three Men" and directors like Leonard Nimoy who don't allow for what they call in the business, "shlick," namely, gimmicks.

Q. When they talk about womanizing presidents, and they always mention Lyndon Johnson and John Kennedy, why do they skip Dwight Eisenhower and Franklin Delano Roosevelt? Sam J., Brooklyn, N.Y.
A. Apparently, FDR's one known extramarital "friendship" (which is how it was once described) was kept secret for years and when it was revealed, the man was a relatively light most people still don't know about it. As for Ike, his relationship with Kay Summersby was an intense one, but ended after he returned from World War II duty in Europe. In any event, few people would have considered these men womanizers as such. (If any of you disagree, let me know.)

Q. What's the physical handicap that Lon Ferrigno ("The Hulk") has kept secret from his fans for years? Eddie G., Baltimore, Md.
A. The only physical handicap, per se, is Lou's deafness, and he certainly hasn't kept that a secret. As a matter of fact, he's been very much involved in telling people how to deal with deafness as adults and how to help deaf children achieve the fullest of their potential.

JANE BADLER: SHE'S COME A LONG WAY FROM "V"

by Selb Graves

Good Morning, Ms. Badler. Your assignment, if you choose to accept it, is to play the role of Shannon "Micki" Imperio. I know, but, in order to do that, you will have to come to Australia and leave your new husband, as well as your Bitchin' Bitch, back in Los Angeles. Of course, you'll have to go the way Jane Badler did to look for a hidden floppy disc that would reveal itself into eternity after telling her she got the part. She learned about it in the usual way — through her agent. And, although Duke had to stay behind, Jane's husband, architect Michael Rachtin, was able to visit her several times.

However, before the official word came through channels about the job, Jane had a strong feeling at the audition that the role was hers. She knew you hear actors say that all the time. But for me, this was the one time that I just knew — I just had this feeling that I got the role. I didn't have the feeling at the preliminary. I wasn't as strong then. However, when I got down to the wire, then I knew they were going to hire me.

Jane believes that it was her mixed feelings about the job in the first place that may have won her the role. "Of course, I was happy to get the role, and I know what it was, but I wasn't sure I wanted to go off to Australia at this time. Besides, I'd already done a great deal of traveling in the months before the 'Mission: Impossible' job came through. But, of course," she said, "I'm really very happy that I got the role — I've been having a wonderful time with it — and I've enjoyed working with everyone on the show — and, by the way, Australia is marvelous."

Brooklyn born, Long Island and New Hampshire raised, Jane's career has made her a very successful traveler. "Traveling is one of the reasons I decided to concentrate on acting, although I started my career in music."

In just the past year, she's been on five continents: Europe — where she promoted the release in Spain of as Natalie on "The Doctors" and later, in Hollywood, a year as Meredith Braxton on "Falcon Crest." It was while she was in New York that she made her first movie entitled, appropriately enough, "The First Time." In the more recent release, "Easy Kill," she stars opposite Sam Rockwell. Her credits also include guest stints on "Hill Street Blues," "Brooklyn South," "Riptide," "Brothers," "Murder, She Wrote," "Jake and the Fatman" and several TV films including "Penalty for a Sin." Jane is currently a graduate at Northwestern University where she received a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree. She appeared in the New York theater in "Fantasticks" and "Picnic." She also did two New York plays, spending two and a half years in it. She is currently a lady lizard in human form, Diana, of "One Life to Live," a year and a half

DEAR DIANE

by Diane Van Arsdale

DEAR DIANE: My husband and I have been married for four years, and our marriage is basically fine. We have very few arguments, and quarrels. But I've noticed in the recent months that we are beginning to argue and quarrel more frequently. Our sex life is getting rather grim also. What can we do to keep our marriage going, and keep each other interested in one another?

GETTING BORED

There are lots of things you can do to spice things up. For instance, one night you could meet him at the door in a negligee, pour him a drink, serve a candlelight dinner, and then sit on the couch and smooch. Also, rather than wearing pajamas or one of your husband's shirts to bed, try some nice lingerie. Go out on a "date" together, like you used to when you were single. Another thing to do is arrange to meet at a singles bar or disco. You and your husband can pretend you need for the time being, and then take things from there. All you really need is a little imagination. I'm sure you'll be able to come up with lots of other things. Good luck.

DEAR DIANE: I'm a single woman in my mid 30s, and have my mother who is 71 living with me. My mother has passed away about five years ago. At that time, my mother lived in a big house, but after my father's death, she decided to sell the house as it was too much for her to take care of. I tried at the time to talk her into wanting to live alone, but she didn't want to be alone,

DEAR DEX

by Dexter Dyer

DEAR DEX: My wife and I are newlyweds, and up to our wedding we had discussed the topic of children many times. We had decided that we would not have any children for at least five years. We had discussed that there were many things we both wanted to do, and places we wanted to see. With children, that would not be possible. Now my wife has decided that she would rather quit her great position as an attorney, and stay home to raise a family. But I don't want children now, and I certainly thought we had a very clear understanding about that. I don't mind if she doesn't work; we don't necessarily need the extra income. But if children were a factor, she would ruin many of the plans we had. It's a lifetime commitment, and I am not ready for that at this time.

She tries to discuss this subject with her, and told her we've discussed this many times before and that's what we decided. The change of heart on her part could get to the point of destroying our marriage with this obsession of having children right away. How can I work this out with her without stirring up major trouble in our marriage, or as far as that goes, destroying it altogether?

UPSET

DEAR UPSET: This situation requires a mediator. I think you should both see a marriage counselor and hash this out that way. If you don't, you'll only continue to clash with her head to head, with neither of you reaching any conclusion. Good luck.

DEAR UPSET: This situation requires a mediator. I think you should both see a marriage counselor and hash this out that way. If you don't, you'll only continue to clash with her head to head, with neither of you reaching any conclusion. Good luck.

Celebrity Birthdays

Happy birthday this week to: Bette Davis, actress; James Garner, actor. Famous folks also born this week include: Gil Hodges, baseball great; Arthur Murray, dance instructor; Walter Huston, actor; William Wordsworth, poet; Walter Winchell, journalist; Giuditta Pasta, opera singer; J. William Fulbright, politician; Claire Booth Luce, playwright; Joseph Pulitzer, publisher.

DEAR DIANE: My husband and I have been married for four years, and our marriage is basically fine. We have very few arguments, and quarrels. But I've noticed in the recent months that we are beginning to argue and quarrel more frequently. Our sex life is getting rather grim also. What can we do to keep our marriage going, and keep each other interested in one another?

GETTING BORED
There are lots of things you can do to spice things up. For instance, one night you could meet him at the door in a negligee, pour him a drink, serve a candlelight dinner, and then sit on the couch and smooch. Also, rather than wearing pajamas or one of your husband's shirts to bed, try some nice lingerie. Go out on a "date" together, like you used to when you were single. Another thing to do is arrange to meet at a singles bar or disco. You and your husband can pretend you need for the time being, and then take things from there. All you really need is a little imagination. I'm sure you'll be able to come up with lots of other things. Good luck.

DEAR DIANE: I'm a single woman in my mid 30s, and have my mother who is 71 living with me. My mother has passed away about five years ago. At that time, my mother lived in a big house, but after my father's death, she decided to sell the house as it was too much for her to take care of. I tried at the time to talk her into wanting to live alone, but she didn't want to be alone,

ALL MY CHILDREN: Nico and Julie argued over Will's involvement in their lives and Julie decided to accept her scholarship. After learning of David's expulsion from the last school over a liaison with Ashley, the headmaster's daughter, Palmer instructed Tad to bring Ashley to Pine Valley. Erica and Jack found shelter in a deserted saloon. Travis discovered that he was warm, and believing they slept together, punched Jackson, declared he hated Erica and drove off. Brody would help his sick mother. As Anna grew increasingly weaker, she tried persuading Frank and Nick to help Jack get the news. Wait To See: Trucker faces another test of his conscience.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE: Austin saved Renee just as the stable roof collapsed. Medical tests showed poison in Roger's system, he'll need an antidote or die. Although Larry told Brenda he loves her, she still defied his plea that she abort the fetus to save her life. Max got temporary custody of baby Al while Michael bailed Gabrielle out of jail. Later, while Max worked on the heater in his new restaurant, a gas pipe developed a slow leak. Wait To See: Vicki continues to learn some startling facts about Roger.

Number of Cheerleaders Increased

The Northern Youth Recreation Association Ladies Auxiliary recently announced they were increasing the number of cheerleaders within the organization.

The Ladies Board, under the direction of Vicki Meyer, president, voted to increase the size of each squad to 15 girls. When Mrs. Meyer was asked why the board had decided this and why it was done after the initial squads had been announced, she responded with the following statement:

"The Ladies Board has been talking about this move for several years, but only recently has been in a financial position to seriously consider it. We were into the tryout mode, concentrating on our newly formed squad called the Polarettes, and preparing for a competition at Holy Name of Jesus in Harrisburg. With the new Polarettes, we added new parents to our board and felt it only right to wait for a board meeting including the new parents."

In addition, and of major importance, was the fact that our staffers had complained that the PIAA safety rules requiring hands-on spotting and three cheerleaders for basket catches were crippling our ability to perform well with the limited number of girls on our squads.

We certainly saw the truth in this at the Holy Name Competition where the winning squads had between 16-22 members. Notwithstanding, our Midget Cheerleaders placed 8th out of 14 squads and our Ponies placed 3rd out of 8 squads. Congratulations to these squads for a fine performance."

New cheerleaders being added to the squads are as follows: PeeWee: Kristin Shumaker, Jennifer Butt, Melissa Ligas. Pony: Bethann Colby, Tiffany Simmons, Kristi Jancsar. Midgets: Leigh Anne Gochenour, Jennifer Smith, May Freeburn.

New members to the Polarettes are: Nicole Zandy,

Kristine Smith, Marissa Ronca, Karrie Fisher, Amanda Fox, Courtney Freeburn, Kathryn LeVine.

"The auxiliary is very pleased to have been able to take this action and out of 101 girls registering, opportunities were provided for 67. The auxiliary is happy to be growing with our community."

We encourage everyone to come to our games on Sunday afternoons next fall and watch our players, our award-winning cheerleaders and our new Polarettes.

If you are planning to take children fishing on opening day, there are several things to consider. First is equipment. Make sure rods and reels that children are going to use are in good working order. There is nothing more frustrating to an adult and a child than to arrive at water's edge only to find an unserviceable reel, an old "kinky" guide or a cracked rod minus a spring dip does happen.

Food is another item kids never seem to have in adequate supply, especially when they're out-of-doors; even more so when they're with you and you're concentrating on first-day trout. Suggested food to take: granola bars (they're not messy), dry roasted nuts, apples, oranges, raisins, packaged fruit drinks, jelly beans, marshmallows (they'll double as bait) and gum drops. In tackle boxes, creels and jacket pockets, they'll go a long way to stave off the "hungeries."

Be sure you take enough. When you're planning on terminal tackle, figure what you will need for yourself and triple it for each child. Youngsters and hooks, line, sinkers, lures, leaders and bait seem to have more parting of the ways than an unhappy divorce. Rocks, bushes, trees, fences, falls in and out of water and pocket holes all contribute to the "great tackle drain." Better plan accordingly so if minimal losses occur, you're ahead of the game.

"Daddy, I'm cold," "Come quick, Jimmy fell in," or "Guess what happened to Mike's new sneakers?" Have you experienced these or similar situations? Wet feet, soaked clothing or just plain cold kids are bound to happen. There isn't an angler worth their license who hasn't dipped themselves either entirely or partially into Pennsylvania waters. It's an even longer day, however, when a youngster becomes cold and wet. A well-stocked clothing box in your pickup bed, car trunk or camp corner can be an early season life-and-peace-of-mind saver. Extra socks, shoes, jackets, shirts, trousers and hats along with a raincoat are good insurance. One final item: Take a plastic bag for storing wet clothes on the trip home just in case a spring dip does happen.

Taking a Youngster Fishing

by Steve Ulah

Some of the strongest relationships and greatest memory makers between an adult and a youngster can be the result of a fishing trip. Many of today's Pennsylvania anglers vividly recall their fishing experiences as a youngster, tagging along with a father, grandfather, big brother, uncle or neighbor. The opening day of trout season brings back memories of that certain stream, that rainy Saturday, catches, lunches, unsuspecting diving lessons, hook and line encounters with trees, bushes, rocks, fences, various parts of the human anatomy and of course, the big one that always got away.

If you are planning to take children fishing on opening day, there are several things to consider. First is equipment. Make sure rods and reels that children are going to use are in good working order. There is nothing more frustrating to an adult and a child than to arrive at water's edge only to find an unserviceable reel, an old "kinky" guide or a cracked rod minus a spring dip does happen.

Wendy White, 19, of York Springs lost control of her vehicle last Friday morning striking the side of a house at 1015 Mountain Road. White told Dillsburg police she braked for three ducks or birds walking on the roadway. According to police the vehicle spun around several times on the roadway then struck the house. White was taken by Dillsburg ambulance to the hospital for minor injuries. According to police, she was wearing a seat belt.
