DILLSBURG SHOPPING CENTER FINAL LAND DEVELOPMENT PLAN - CARROLL TWP

Supervisors to vote on 39-acre shopping strip next week

Mary Lou Bytof

The construction of a shopping strip bordered by Route 15, Orebank and Siddonsburg Roads, may begin next spring or summer, according to developer John Vokral, P.E., of the Dillsburg Land Corporation.

Following a presentation by Vokral on June 6, the Carroll Township Board of Supervisors tabled their vote on the preliminary land development plan for the 39-acre shopping strip until its next meeting on Tuesday, June 20.

Supervisor David Lavertue requested additional time to allow the public to review the plan. He also said he wished to further consult Township Engineer Walter Heine.

Supervisor Larry Eichelberger said he was prepared to vote Tuesday evening. Gary Reihart, chairman of the board, said he will abstain from voting because the sewer line to the complex runs through his property.

At the meeting, several township residents expressed their concerns about the control of runoff water at the proposed strip.

Heine told them the developer has met the requirements of the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources (DER) for stormwater management.

The plan includes three large stormwater detention ponds. The basins will catch the runoff water, and bleed it off slowly, Heine said.

"This is properly designed," he said of the drainage system. "It [drainage] should be no different then it was when it was a cornfield," he assured the project's neighbors.

In the event of a fuel spill along Route 15, the basins can be blocked off to catch the spill, the engineer explained.

The detention ponds will be maintained by the developer, Heine told the supervisors.

Vokral said the Dillsburg Land Corporation, owner of the 300,000 square foot tract, is a branch of Sanford Nalitt, a commercial land development company that operates 15 shopping centers in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

"We locate the property and go through approval procedures, then we build. We own and operate it," Vokral said.

The company is not trying to make a fast buck, Vokral added. "We're in it for the long haul," he emphasized.

The Dillsburg Shopping Strip (it has not been formally named) will be built in two or three phases, the developer said.

Phase I will include a supermarket and several satellite stores, such as a pizza parlor, Vokral said. Phase II may include a department store, additional satellite stores, and possibly a home improvement center, he said.

According to the preliminary plan, the supermarket will border Orebank Road.

There will be three entrances to the shopping complex, as illustrated on the plan. They will be located on Orebank Road, Siddonsburg Road and Route 15.

On Tuesday, the supervisors voted to send a letter to PennDOT to request a permit application for a traffic signal at the intersection of Orebank Road and Route 15.

According to Vokral, the distance between the northbound only entrance/exit on Route 15 and the intersection of Route 15 and Orebank Road is 600 feet.

Following Vokral's presentation, the township engineer told the supervisors and citizens that the plan met his approval. "It looks like it's well designed," he said.

Wellington Heights granted approval in Monaghan

by Deborah Recker

The final plan for the Wellington Heights on the Yellow Breeches subdivision was finally approved at the June 5 meeting of the Monaghan Township Board of Supervisors. The sixty-three (63) single family home development will be located on one hundred forty (140) acres of land off York and N. Lewisberry Roads.

Developer Richard Mowery, of Mowery's Orchards Inc., meet with some opposition in the past months in regard to an on-site sewage treatment plant that is to be located on Lot #65 in the development.

At the May 8th Board of Supervisors meetings, Solicitor G. Thomas Miller and Supervisor Lloyd Persun expressed their concerns that Lot #65 and Lot #18 were not in compliance with the zoning ordinance. No vote was cast at that time on the plan and a recommendation was made to the developer to apply for relief under the Zoning Ordinance.

Mowery choose not to proceed under zoning for relief citing that the subdivision predated the zoning ordinance and that it was in order as presented.

After some discussion at the June 5th meeting, Chairman Jacob Cottenham and Supervisor Wayne Miller agreed that the plan did predate zoning and was in order. The vote carried 2 to 1 to accept the plan. Supervisor Lloyd Persun cast the descending vote stating that he felt the zoning issues were not resolved.

In other development action, Harold Coover was present at the meeting representing the Planning Commission. Coover presented the Board with the Hal Mowery preliminary subdivision plan. The Board moved to approve the plan subject to the building set-back line being prominently noted and that no building take place from the flood plain zone to S. Lewisberry Road.

The Diller subdivision, which is located both in Fairview township and Monaghan township, was presented to the Board for approval. The subdivision totals four (4) lots with one-half of Lot #2 being in Monaghan township along Saw Mill Road. The board did not take action on the plan pending Planning Commission review.

The Board approved a four (4) lot subdivision for Sylvester Fletcher.

With development in the township on the upswing, Secretary Laverne Rohrbaugh invited Lee Irvin, York County Sediment Control Coordinator, to address the Board on the subject of Storm Water and Erosion Sediment Controls. Irvin presented the board with sample ordinances that could be adopted by the township. Such ordinances could assist municipal control with the increased development

Since he began to farm , Jim McHale has had one underlying concern in his work, whether as a farmer, a director of the National Farmers Union or working with the milk producers associations. His concern has been the improvement of agricultural and rural policies in order to improve the economic conditions of the small farmer.

He has made his living through general dairy farming, believing that through cooperative ventures on the part of milk producers, a better life could come to the farmers. His work in founding the Western Pennsylvania Milk Producers Association and the Pennsylvania Farmers Union Milk Producers Association is well known throughout the state.

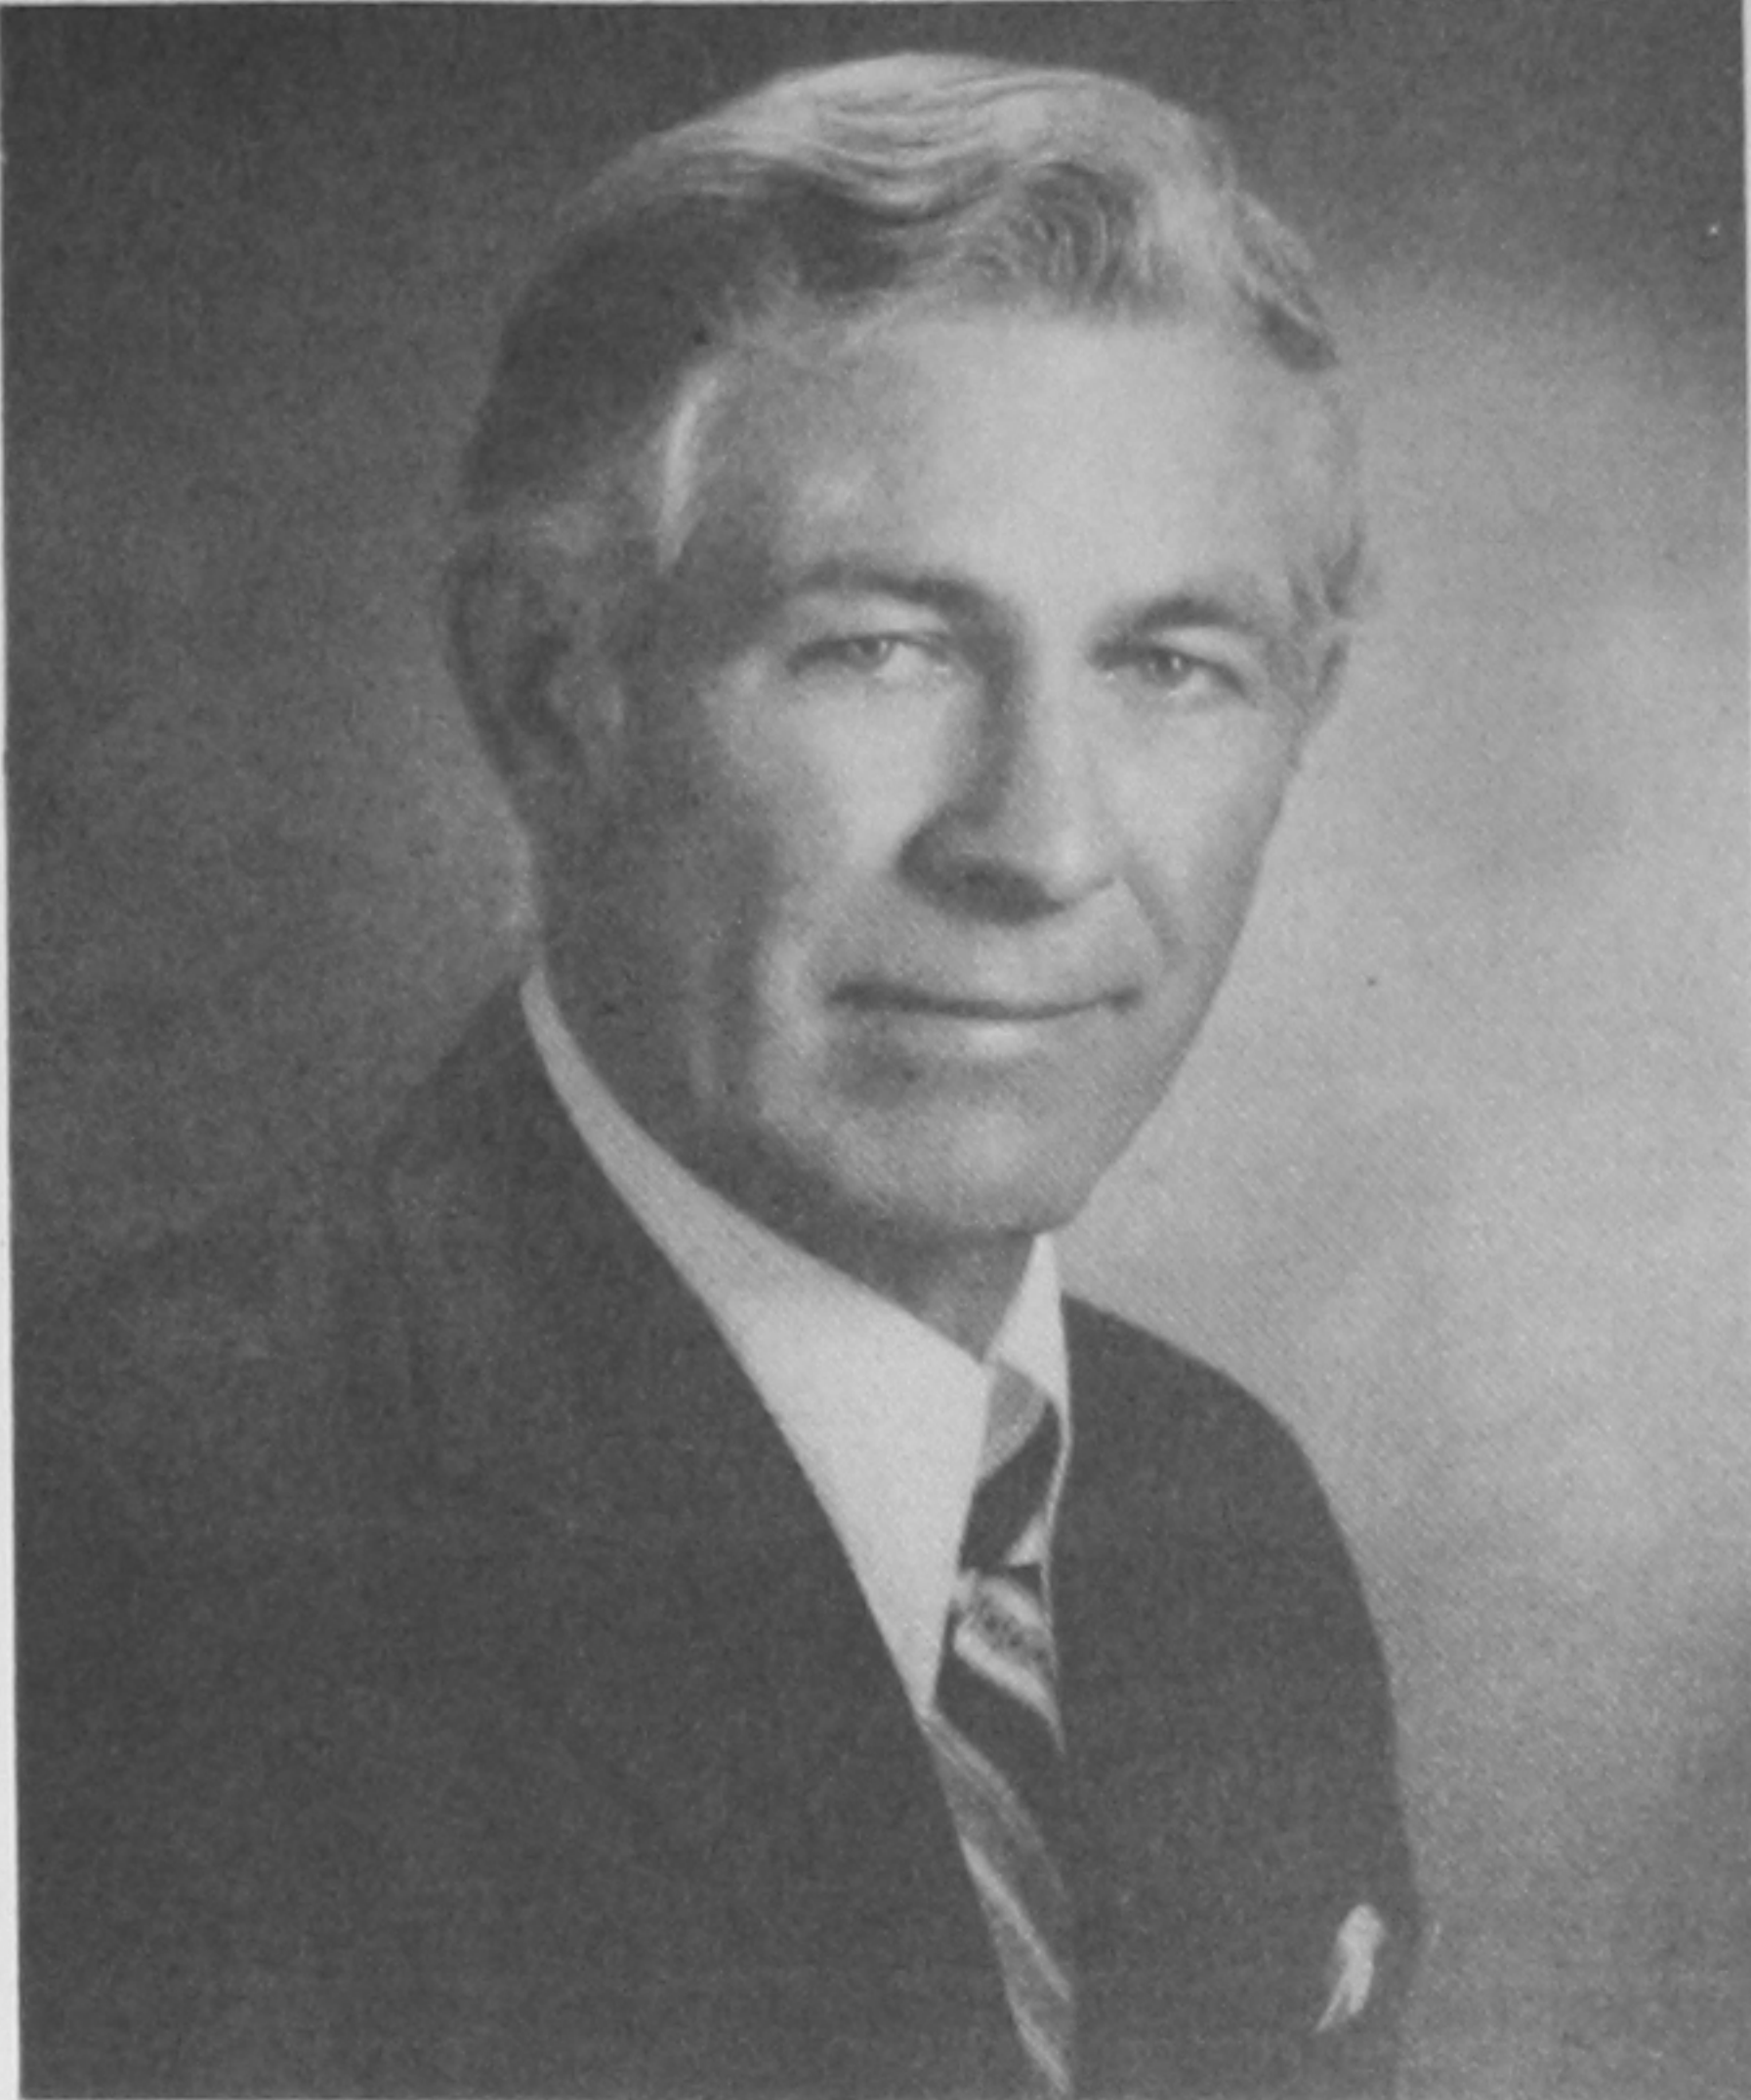

Jim McHale served as Secretary of Agriculture for Pennsylvania from 1971 until 1976.

As the Secretary of Agriculture, one of his first steps was to sponsor four hearings on proverty in rural Pennsylvania. Out of these hearings came the first steps toward a study of health delivery systems in Pennsylvania. This was followed by developing and placing into operation an operative rural transportation system.

Shortly after Jim McHale became Secretary of Agriculture, he suggested to Governor Shapp that a National Conference on Land Use Policy be held in Pennsylvania. Governor Shapp readily agreed to this suggestion. However, the Land Use Policy Conference, which had been carefully planned for 1972, had to be postponed while Governor Shapp, Jim McHale and others struggled with the tragedies brought upon the people of Pennsylvania during the Agnes Hurricane emergency period. Under the leadership of Jim McHale rural people were helped to reclaim their land and to clean up the debris that had been left

Q. Please tell me everything you know about Patrick Swayze. B.C., Philadelphia, Pa.

A. Patrick Wayne Swayze is 36 years old and a native of Houston, Texas. He has been married since 1976 to Lisa Niemi. His hobbies include riding horses, carpentry, music, and, of course, dancing. Patrick and Lisa are also great pet lovers. The couple own 13 horses, two Rhodesian Ridgebacks, two standard poodles, many chickens, peacocks, peahens, and four adorable cats. As an avid auto lover, Patrick owns a DeLorean, Ford pickup truck and a Harley-Davidson.

Patrick's film credits to date include: "Skatetown, U.S.A." 1979; "The Outsiders," 1983; "Uncommon Valor," 1983; "Grandview, U.S.A." 1984; "Red Dawn," 1984; "Youngblood," 1986; "Dirty Dancing," 1987; "Steel Dawn," 1987; "Tiger Warsaw," 1988; "Road House," 1989.

Patrick's television credits include: "The Comeback Kid," 1980; "Return of the Rebels," 1981; "The Renegades," 1982; "Off Sides," 1984; "North And South," Parts I and II, 1985 and 1986.

Q. What is singer Lisa Lisa's real name? And, could you please tell me a few personal tidbits about my favorite performer? V.M., Bronx, N.Y.

A. Lisa Lisa's real name is Lisa Velez, who is the youngest in a family of 10 children. She was born and raised in the Hell's Kitchen section of New York City. Lisa was renamed Lisa Lisa by her current producers, Full Force, when she was an unknown at 17 years of age and was teamed up with Cult Jam.

Keith Hernandez, Lisa Lisa & Ron Darling

Now only 22 years old, and an international star, Lisa recently married John Yulfo, a Federal Express employee, and the couple have relocated to Congers, a town which is a stones' throw from mid-Manhattan.

Lisa credits most of her success to her mother, Monserrate, who encouraged her singing career at a very young age by having her join a local church choir. The proud mother of 10, Monserrate supported her offspring by baby-sitting in their Hell's Kitchen neighborhood.

For the record, Lisa Lisa's other group members, Cult Jam, are really know by their real names, Mike Hughes and Spanador.

Q. Nobody in the world is funnier than Eileen Brennan. What projects is she currently working on and how is her health? P.B., Key West, Fla.

A. Eileen has three movies in the works. This summer she will be teamed-up with George C. Scott in the "Exorcist III." She also starts filming "Texasville," this summer which is the sequel to "The Last Picture Show." In addition, she just finished shooting "Stella" in Toronto with Bette Midler, which is the remake of Barbara Stanwyck's 1937 classic "Stella Dallas." And if this isn't enough, the talented redhead will be on stage this summer in "Annie." Without a doubt, Eileen is a workaholic.

Since her 1983 near-fatal auto accident, Eileen has had some problems with her health. For instance, she became addicted to pain killers after the accident. However, I am very happy and proud to report Ms. Brennan is fit as a fiddle now and certainly on the go.

Q. I thought I'd never accept anyone in Shelley Long's place on "Cheers," but I have to admit I really like Kirstie Alley. Can you tell me something about her? Ellen H., Three Rivers, Minn.

A. Kirstie, who plays Rebecca Howe on "Cheers," made her movie debut as Lt. Saavik, a Vulcan officer on "Star Trek II: The Wrath of Khan." She wore the ears and got to play opposite her long-time idol, Leonard Nimoy (Commander Spock). "When I was younger," she said, "I used to pretend I was Spock's daughter." The Witchita, Kansas native went on to appear in other films including "Runaway" with Tom Selleck, "Champions" with John Hurt, "Summer School" with Mark Harmon, "Shot To Kill" with Tom Berenger and Sidney Poitier and, more recently, "Lover Boy" with Patrick Dempsey and "Daddy's Home" with John Travolta. Asked which of these handsome leading men was her favorite, Kirstie says: "The one I go home to every night." She refers, of course, to her husband, Parker Stevenson, with whom she shares a home filled with animals.

Q. I've heard that Dan Rather is really hard to get along with and people on his show have a low estimate of him. Don B. Racine, Wis.

Q. Who really writes Dan Rather's newscasts? I've heard they're done by his staff. Is this true, too, for Tom Brokaw and Peter Jennings? Mary M., Buffalo, N.Y.

A. Dan is very well-liked and respected among his coworkers at CBS. He's known to be fair and to go to bat with the big bosses for his staff. He is, however, a tough anchorperson and insists on everyone working toward perfection. All three anchors, Dan at CBS, Brokaw at NBC, and Jennings at ABC, write their own material.

Q. To whom is "Jeopardy" host Alex Trebek married, and is he really as smart as he seems to be on the show? Stephanie McD., Toronto, Canada

A. Trebek, who by the way is a Canadian, is divorced but is seeing someone at this time. And, yes, he really is as smart as he seems to be. He holds a degree in philosophy and is a voracious reader. He appreciates art, music, literature, the sciences, history.

Home Hints

LITTER FREE — I have a hint that I have not seen before in your column. I use a square tissue box as a litter bag in the car. If anyone has a cold, I can always pass the box back and forth for disposal of tissue and, with the pieces of cellophane on top, nothing falls out. This is more convenient than litter bags. Samantha R., New Haven, Conn.

MESH BAG — When my son was a baby, I wanted to wash formula bottles, nipples and caps in the dishwasher. I knew it had to be done on the top rack, but the nipples and caps kept falling to the bottom of the dishwasher. I was always having to stop and check the bottom before the drying cycle started.

So I thought and finally came up with an idea. Why not use one of those mesh bags for nylons, etc.? I bought one, and it worked great. I just put all the nipples and caps in the bag and then placed the bag on the top rack of my dishwasher. (Be sure to check the nipples and caps well after each washing to make sure they have been cleaned properly and are in good shape).

YOUR HOROSCOPE

by Charles King Cooper

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You will find yourself in a very busy social whirl this week and may neglect some important projects at work. You would be wise to slow down in order to avoid this.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Although you've had somewhat of a tendency to dominate certain people in your life, don't let this backfire on you. Perhaps this is the time to let others become more independent.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Although things have really been going your way where your career is concerned, you will still have to work very hard to get where you're going. This is no time to slack off, even if you're tempted. Be careful when socializing with co-workers.

MOON CHILDREN (June 21 to July 22) The argument you had with your mate over the weekend will finally be resolved by mid-week. However, you're both going to have to do some compromising, although neither one of you wants to do so. There is a possibility of good news concerning money.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) For those of you involved in a new romance, togetherness is favored. Getting to know that other person will be pleasurable and relaxing. You attached lions will also find this a period of renewed romance and harmony.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Although you have assumed some added responsibility at work, you will be able to accomplish much this week, and do it well. You welcome challenges and are at your best when taking them on. This week will prove that to you.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) This is the week to really get down to business on those somewhat serious matters you've been trying to avoid. However, the weekend is favored for good times, relaxing and socializing. Clear your head then.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Things on the home front are going through some positive changes. Make sure you're making a substantial contribution to this. As a result, you and your family will be close and more united. This is the week to work on domestic harmony.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) You've been neglecting some people, so take this week to get back in touch with them. However, don't go overboard on the social scene. Be sure to get enough rest and take care of yourself. Your diet needs some attention, too.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You seem to have several things going on at the same time, but that's okay. One of these projects is sure to pay off in the long run where your career is concerned. A surprise opportunity will occur this week. Don't be afraid to take a chance.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You are in quite the optimistic mood this week. This positive attitude will go a long way toward influencing others and you will accomplish much as a result. Harmony at home will prevail this week.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) That windfall for which you've been waiting finally reaches you this week. However, don't be hasty in determining how to use it. You might want to explore some investment options first.

Tuning In by Seli Groves

VOX "POPS:" Roy Dotrice, who plays Father on CBS' "Beauty & the Beast," is spending this Father's Day in Vancouver, British Columbia, wrapping his role in a new CBS thriller, "The Lady Forgets." The British actor, who is the real life father-in-law of Edward Woodward of "The Equalizer" (as you probably know), plays a wealthy art collector in the movie which stars

Donna Mills (Abby of "Knots Landing") as the "Lady" whose memory lapse involves two years of her life. During that period, she may have committed a murder.

Bruce Abbott, who appears as Father's son on "Beauty & the Beast," and who is married in real life to the "Beauty" of the title, Linda Hamilton (as you undoubtedly know), costars with Kathleen Quinlan in the USA Network's suspense film, "Trapped" airing June 14.

Ken Kercheval (Cliff Barnes, "Dallas") says nice things about his dad on "Holiday Gourmet" Father's Day edition airing June 15 and June 16 on TNN. (Check for local airtime.) "My dad," he says, "was a country doctor who specialized in surgery. When he died, he was the oldest doctor in town, and the only one still making house calls. When I go home to Clinton, Indiana, people still talk about my dad, and that makes me very proud."

Ken also notes that he's the first in five generations to skip medicine in favor of the theater. He knew his father approved his choice because "When I'd open in a new Broadway show, Dad would hang a sign in his office window that he'd be gone for a while. Where to? To New York to see Kenny open in a new show," he'd say."

Veteran's Post by Freddy Groves

Lack of records is one excuse for a government body to fail to move on a veteran's claim for service-connected injury compensation. Another is outright denial that the event even occurred. Still others, as vets who pursued their Agent Orange claims for years know so well, have been assured that the event couldn't have caused the problem — in spite of evidence to the contrary.

Some Canadian veterans of World War II have run into similar "official" statements in their claims for compensation for health problems resulting from exposure to mustard gas experiments at the Canadian Forces Base, Suffield in 1945. Last fall, however, the government finally set up a hotline for vets who were involved in the tests. As a result, several are now being considered for compensation, including one man so severely crippled with emphysema he couldn't even travel to his hearing.

NOTE: Recognizing that some service-connected illnesses, including multiple myeloma, may show up within 40 years of atmospheric nuclear tests, Congress passed a law allowing American vets exposed to radiation in Nevada in the 1950s to file for disability compensation. Local VA offices can help with claims.

Tots To Teens by Sue Ellen Sullivan

Dear Sue: I dread the mornings. Joey, my 12-year-old son, is the slowest kid alive. I have to drag him out of bed and then instead of getting ready for school, I find him lying on the couch. It takes forever for him to get dressed and he is always the last kid on the block to leave for school. By the time he goes, I feel like I just ran a marathon. How can I get him to move? Gina C.

Dear Gina: There are two methods you could try, so start with the easier. First tell him how you dread the mornings. Then because he is so tired in the morning, have him go to sleep earlier at night. Promise him something like a movie or his favorite dinner if he will get ready for school without all the hassle.

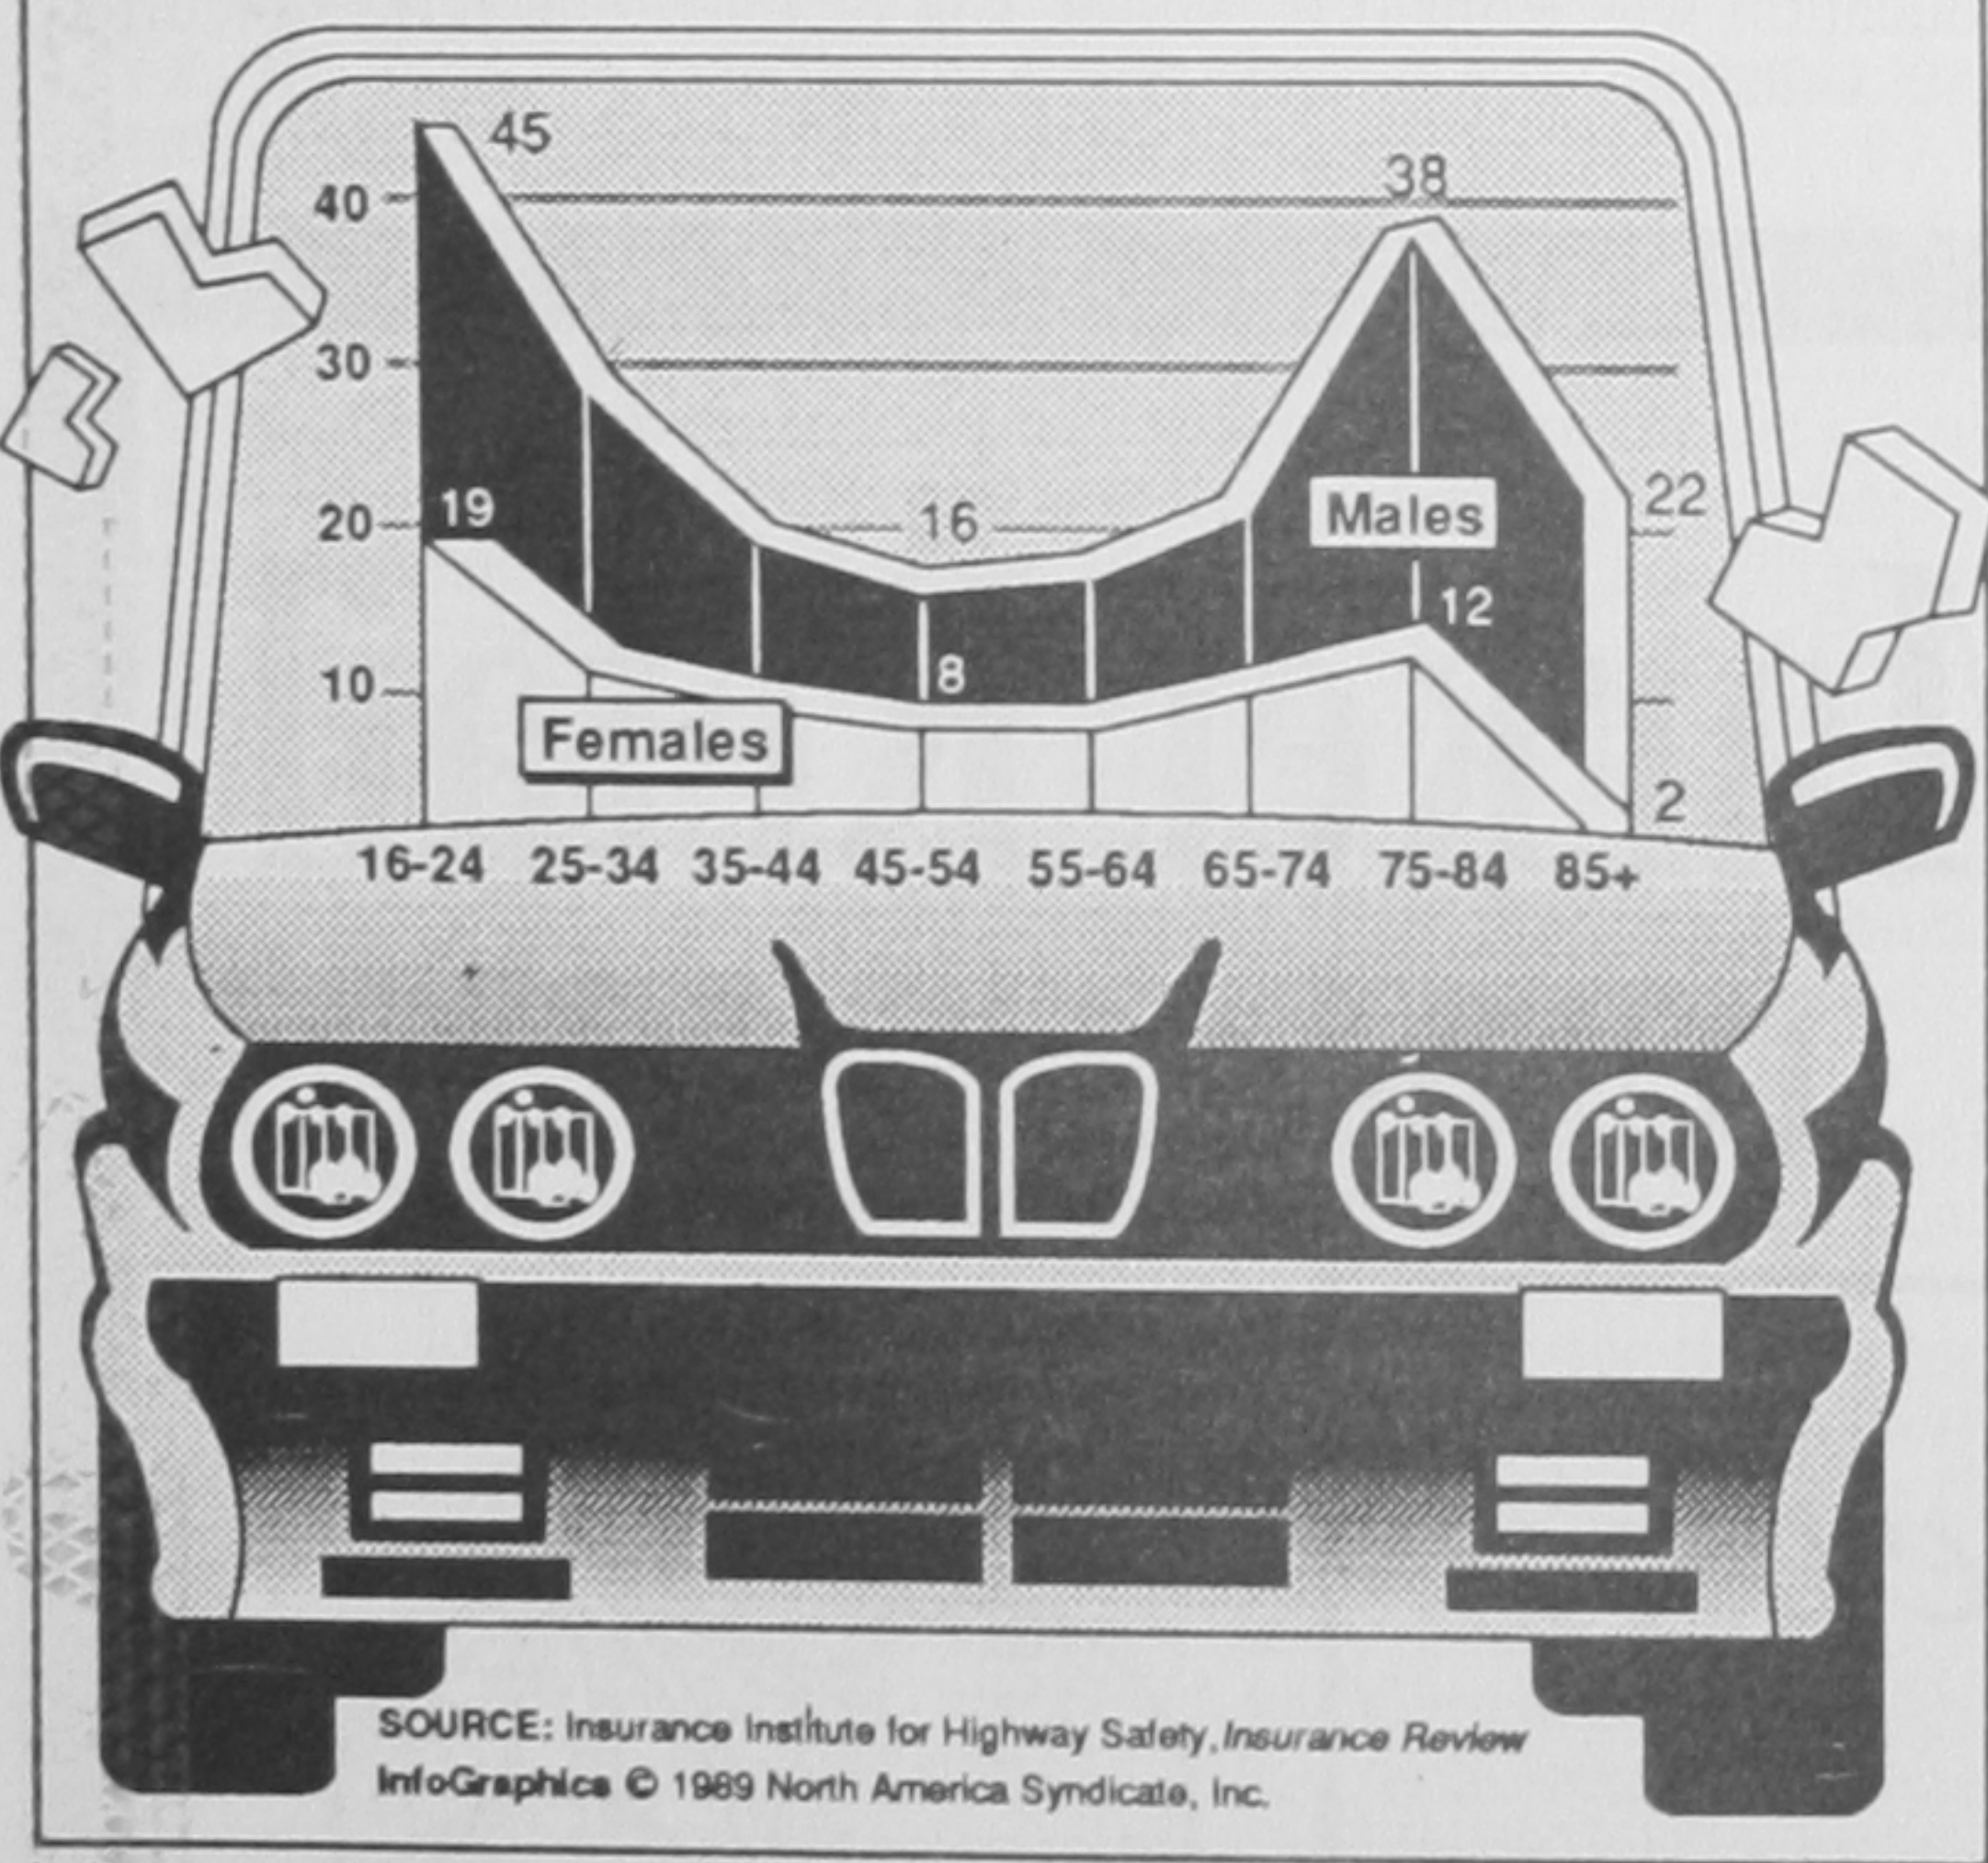

If this method doesn't work, it is time to get tough. Tell him he is responsible to be on time for school. It is not your responsibility. Wake him up once and then go have a cup of coffee. If he is late, he will have to take the school punishment. If he misses school, make sure he doesn't spend the day watching TV. Give him chores to do and make sure he spends some of the time doing schoolwork. Once he realizes that you won't save him, he'll learn to save himself.

Age and auto accidents

Deaths of both male and female passenger car drivers in auto accidents decline significantly from ages 40 to 69, while drivers under 25 and over 75 have nearly twice as many driver deaths per 100,000. Females have far fewer driver fatalities from accidents than males in every age group. The greatest number of female driver deaths occur from ages 16-24; for males the rate remains relatively high through age 44, though there is a significant decrease after the age of 25.

Videolettes by Rhonda Hill

VID PICK OF THE WEEK — "Torch Song Trilogy" starring Anne Bancroft, Matthew Broderick and Harvey Fierstein. This is the Tony Award-winning play from Fierstein which simply lit up the Great White Way. However, like most Broadway plays, they just don't match up to their glittering stage performance on the big screen, and "Torch" is no different. Fierstein portrays the caring homosexual, Arnold Beckoff, showing that he is no different from anyone else in today's society. Arnold wants love, happiness, a good job and nice home. However, we go through several rollercoasting happenings of heartbreak along the way, that, to me, are all too predictable. Bancroft plays Arnold's tough mom, while Broderick portrays his young model love. What Broderick's character of Alan ever sees in Arnold is a mystery to me. Anyway, with its faults I enjoyed the movie. However, whether Harvey likes it or not, this video is probably a bit too much for Kansas. The vid is available from RCA/Columbia for $89.95.

OTHER NEW VIDS OF NOTE — "Cohen & Tate" starring Roy Scheider and Adam Baldwin (Nelson) $89.98 ... "Buster" starring Phil Collins and Julie Walters (HBO) $89.99 ... "Bird" starring Forest Whitaker and Diane Venora (Warner Bros.) $89.95 ... "The Prince Of Bel Air" starring Mark Harmon and Kirstie Alley (Academy) $89.95.

ROAD HOUSE — If you're looking for a lot of action and excitement, this is the movie for you. Add to that the bonus of sexy Patrick Swayze (of whom I am a most unabashed fan!), and you have a winner.

Okay, so there's not much plot, per se, to this self-indulgent movie. Swayze plays Dalton, a bouncer who is so supremely confident in his martial arts abilities, he actually wears white to work. But don't get this guy wrong. He is most definitely not into gratuitous violence. He actually has a degree in philosophy. Well, judging from the crowd at the Double Deuce, Dalton definitely has a lot of material to study!

His love interest is a woman doctor, wonderfully portrayed by Kelly Lynch, who (naturally) is turned on by this super-macho man who doesn't even need anesthesia for any stitches he may require. In fact, Dalton is quite handy with a needle and thread as he demonstrates when he sews up his own wound — and all this without even flinching!

This movie almost celebrates its violence. It's sadistic, macho, sleazy and ugly, but in such a way as to really appeal to the viewer's baser instincts. The physical action is made more palatable by the injection of just the right touch of humor. We know as we're watching that this movie is not taking itself seriously, thus we are free to enjoy it without guilt.

What I found to be a serious flaw in this movie was its treatment of women. They are portrayed as mindless tarts, basically. Even Dalton's lady doctor friend slinks around in sexy dresses, fending off guys with octopus arms. Yet, I knew few women would actually object. Patrick Swayze's sex appeal is enough to temper a lot of feminist objections, my own included, I am ashamed to admit.

While I honestly can't say this is a "good" movie, I can say it is entertaining. What saves it is its obvious tongue-in-cheek attitude.

Prepare For Weather Emergencies by Matilda Charles

WEATHER WISE: One of the goals many folks have as they near retirement is to move to an area where the climate tends to be more moderate than the one they lived in before. However, these warmer places also tend to have extreme weather conditions that can be dangerous, especially to people who haven't had a lifetime of preparing for them. These meteorological problems include hurricanes, tornadoes, floods, lightning storms and earthquakes. Through the Weather Education and Awareness Project (WEAP), the "Weather Channel" and the American Red Cross have gotten together to provide, through local cable facilities, vital information to older people who may have to face a weather calamity.

Some tips seniors should be aware of include:

1. Have a stock of prescription medicine on hand during severe weather seasons. Also, if you need to take insulin, have a packet of hypodermic syringes and alcohol swabs ready to take with you into the shelter, along, of course, with your insulin vial. Also take glucose tablets in the event you have an insulin reaction.

2. Establish a buddy system with a friend or neighbor to check on one another if the National Weather Service issues a "watch" for their area.

3. Take a thermos of cool water to avoid dehydration.

4. Take a portable radio with you tuned to weather reports.

5. Keep a flashlight and fresh batteries handy in the event of a power failure. Avoid using candles.

6. Allow yourself plenty of time to seek shelter. It's better to be in the shelter and have the weather crisis miss your area than to have to rush for cover and risk injury. Do time drills. Check how long it would take you to reach shelter from the yard, kitchen, bedroom, etc. This is especially important for those who may have an ambulatory problem.

GOOD NEWS: The House of Representatives just said no to most of the administration's proposals to increase Medicare beneficiary costs while reducing Medicare and Medicaid beneficiary access to quality health care. Rep. Edward I. Roybal, (D-Calif.), the Chairman of the House Select Committee on Aging, hails this important move to preserve benefits without adding to the costs paid by beneficiaries. He's particularly pleased at this first step in providing Medicaid funding for the care of the mentally retarded. This is an especially important benefit for older parents of adult retarded children who worry how their children will fare in the event of their (the parents') death, or who can no longer afford the costs of care, or may be too frail to continue caring for them.

Matilda's Brainstorm: Attention local school boards! How about encouraging retired teachers to form a tutoring service with expenses and, perhaps, a modest stipend covered by you?

WOMEN AT WORK

Hope For Caregivers

by Tamara Jones

CAREGIVERS UPDATE: Over the last two years, this column has dealt frequently with the problems faced by family caregivers, most of whom are women — and many of whom have to stop working outside the home to care for ailing or elderly family members. As a result, careers that might have flourished go nowhere, and Social Security and private pension benefits are severely limited. Positions they worked hard to get have to be surrendered. (Several members of Congress are preparing legislation to permit caregivers to keep their jobs during a specified leave time.)

A study cited in the May/June issue of "Geriatric Nursing, The American Journal of Care for the Aging" makes it clear that anyone who has been a caregiver for two years or more, may be facing some severe problems that go beyond the loss of career and job benefits. According to experts in the field, after two years, many caregivers become isolated. Home care benefits often dry up. Friends and family members are less likely to offer to help. What's more, they're probably so good at what they're doing, says the magazine study, that their charges probably never get to see professional caregivers — which can be a problem for everyone.

There are ways the caregiver can help herself. She can take advantage of respite care programs which can help ease the emotional and physical demands of caregiving. There are also home care "tune-up" visits by a home care nurse to evaluate the caregiver and patient even if the patient is medically stabilized.

Often, the women who gave up their jobs to care for a family member find themselves back in the job market after the family member has either died or been placed in a care institution with huge chunks of time cut out of their job experiences. They may never catch up on their original career goals and may need to start over elsewhere. I would like to suggest that more attention be given by social services groups to easing the caretaker back into the outside world. They should be treated like employees who have lost their jobs through industry retrenchment. In other words, they should be retrained through a government program.

It would also be helpful for the caregiver to begin resuming an outside work routine before the sudden shift caused by her charge's death or institutionalization. If it can be arranged, she should be persuaded to accept home care assistance that will allow her to work, at least part time, outside. This will help rebuild her Social Security base, as well as her self-confidence. Your suggestions are welcome. Send them to me c/o King Features Weekly Service, 235 East 45th Street, New York, N.Y. 10017.

Scout Troop 38 camps on Juniata

On June 3rd, 17 scouts and 6 leaders from Troop 38 spent the weekend on the Juniata River. Mifflintown was the starting point for the 30 mile overnight canoe trip. The troop canoed 22 miles before making camp for the evening. After dinner, some scouts fished, some swam in the river while others just rested. As the scouts turned in for the night, and a thunderstorm rolled through the valley, the scouts were reminded of the troop motto, "If it isn't damp it isn't camp."

Sunday after breaking camp, the boys put their canoes in the river at Newport and travelled the last 8 miles to Amity Hall. When the last canoe showed up, the boys ate lunch and got ready to load the canoes for the trip to Dillsburg. The scouts rented canoes from the York-Adams Area Council BSA. The 2 trailers and 12 canoes can be used by any troop in the council.

Although they were sunburned, tired, and covered with bug bites the day wasn't over. In addition to drying tents and putting away their equipment, the scouts participated in the Cub Pack 39 Webelos ceremony at Camp Tuckahoe, where fifteen Cub Scouts literally "crossed the bridge" to scouting.

On June 25th, 25 scouts will be heading to Camp Tuckahoe for their annual week of summer camp. Summer camp gives scouts a chance to earn merit badges such as rowing, canoeing, archery and others which are difficult to schedule during the school year. Camp also provides an opportunity for

Northern Elementary awards assembly June 8

By Mary Lou Bytof

"What you learn today will help you tomorrow," Northern York County School District Superintendent John Allison told Northern Elementary students at the June 8 awards assembly.

By the end of the program, nearly every student was recognized, either individually or as part of a group.

The ceremony began with welcoming remarks by Principal Mark Hagenbuch, followed by two piano solos by first grader Noah Hoch.

Second grader Sashka Carmella then led the students, teachers and visitors in the pledge to the flag. Sashka, who was born in Costa Rica, became a United States citizen only a week before the assembly.

On June 1, 22 students in Martha Slothower's class travelled to York to watch their classmate take the oath of citizenship. They were accompanied by their teacher, the principal, superintendent, and director of special services.

At the assembly, Superintendent Allison presented the new citizen with an award from the school district.

In speaking of citizenship, Allison told the students, "We got that automatically. She had to earn it."

the boys to meet others scouts from York-Adams as well as scouts from Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia. With over 100 cubs in Pack 39 and over 30 scouts in Troop 38 it appears scouting is alive and well in Dillsburg.

Allison also recognized second grader Tom Wesner who received a volunteer award from the Capital Area Intermediate Unit (CAIU). Tom assisted a handicapped student by speaking sign language with him.

"Tom does what we all should do, Allison told the assembly, "Help your fellow man."

In addition to a certificate from the CAIU, Allison gave Tom a coupon for a Big Mac.

The superintendent had a final request for the students on their last day of school. "Read a book this summer," he urged.

Principal Hagenbuch continued with the presentation of individual awards.

Kindergarten student Samantha Butt received a certificate and free T-shirt for her winning design in the Northern T-shirt Contest.

The design consists of a star and the words, "Northern shines," Hagenbuch said.

Four students, all from Vickie Wenger's second grade class, received American flags for their participation in the Republican Club Essay Contest. Jessica Diven, Stephen Simoni, Ammittee Barrouck, and Allison Kapp all wrote about "What the Flag Means to Me."

The following students won "Books are beary special" buttons for their continued participation in the "It's In A Book" program sponsored by Mrs. Emily Schwartz, school librarian. They are: Daniel Acri, Matt Bittle, Peter Boyajian, Konrad Crist, Daniel Dourte, Nicole Heiges, Nathan

Groups of students were recognized for their participation in the following activities: a spelling contest to raise money for the Leukemia Society, the Plant a Family Tree program, and the Pizza Hut "Book-It" reading program. Others were recognized for receiving Cubby Awards for Classroom achievement throughout the year.

The PEPPER Award for the Teachers' Association went to PTO President Mary Ann Cromer for her contribution to the school.

Hagenbuch and John J. Falafovich, supervisor of special services, presented the Parent Volunteer Awards to the following people:

Mitch Smith Memorial Sprint Championship

Williams Grove Speedway will honor the memory of one of the all-time greats of Central Pennsylvania Sprint car racing with the running of the inaugural Mitch Smith Memorial, this Friday evening, June 16.

The first heat is scheduled to start at 8:00.

In the early '70's when the United States Auto Club was the premier Sprint car racing sanctioning body in America, Richard D. (Mitch) Smith, a weekend racer from Linglestown, humbled the nationally known USAC stars twice at Williams Grove and once at Selinsgrove. In so doing Mitch Smith put Central Pennsylvania Sprint car racing on the national map.

Although USAC races were run without wings, it made no difference to Smith, one of the hardest chargers ever to race in Central Pa.

Smith had already won many Supermodified features at Williams Grove before Sprint cars became a regular attraction here in 1967. Mitch won his last Sprint car feature at Williams Grove in 1975 and a the time only Kenny Weld had more victories to his credit.

The original "Mr. Excitement," Smith won three Williams Grove features in 1967, seven in '68, three in '69, six in '70, six in '71, one in '72 and one in '75. His total of 27 still ranks him in sixth place behind Lynn Paxton, Smokey Snellbaker, Weld, Bobby Allen and Keith Kauffman on the Grove's all-time list of feature winners.

Mitch Smith died of heart disease late last year. He was 57.

This week's memorial program will include time trials and qualifying races for the Sprint cars to set the field for the 30-lap feature which will pay $3200 to win. Second place will pay $2200 with $1500 going to the third-place finisher.

All 24 feature finishing positions have been increased. Even the 24th or last-place finishers will take home $300. The total purse for the Sprint car division on June 16 will be well in excess of $16,000.

The Sprint cars and Limited Sprints will be back in action June 23. Sprints and USAC Midgets will close the month on General Electric night, June 30.

Rain Washes Out Sprints

The Sprint car races at Williams Grove Speedway was rained out Friday night.

Williams Grove will be back in action this Friday, June 16, with the running of the Mitch Smith Memorial, a 30-lap championship event for Sprint cars paying $3200 to win. The KARS Limited Sprints will also return this week.

Last Friday marked the fifth time this season Williams Grove has fallen victim to the elements.

Eleven Sprint car programs have been presented thus far in 1989 and nine different drivers have won Sprint car features. Repeat winners include Bobby Allen and Stevie Smith, while Kenny Jacobs, Steve Stambaugh, Johnny Mackison, Cris Eash, Frankie Kerr, Steve Kinser and Sammy Swindell have scored one feature victory apiece.

The current Busch Beer point standings are as follows:

1. Stevie Smith, 1485 pts.; 2. Kenny Adams, 1370 pts.; 3. Steve Smith, 1335 pts.; 4. Fred Rahmer, 1285 pts.; 5. Paul Lotier, 1210 pts.; 6. Kenny Jacobs, 1135 pts.; 7. Dan Kietrich and Steve Stambaugh, 1075 pts.; 9. Chuck Reinert, 1070 pts.; 10. Joey Kuhn, 1060 pts.; 11. Barry Camp, 1050 pts.; 12. Jim Nace, 1045 pts.; 13. Joe Gravino, 990 pts.; 14. Johnny Mackison, 925 pts.; 15. Tom Mayberry and Bobby Fletcher, 900 pts.; 17. Jeff Shepard, 870 pts.; 18. Dave Kelly, 770 pts.; 19. Bobby Weaver, 750 pts.; 20. Ron Kramer, 650 pts.

Property Tax/Rent Rebate Applications

Rep. Bruce Smith today reminded eligible senior citizens that June 30 is the deadline for filing Pennsylvania Property Tax/Rent Rebate applications for rents and taxes paid in 1988.

The Revenue Department has received more than 400,000 applications for the program. Those who have not yet filed for rebates should do so as soon as possible to assure timely processing and delivery of their checks.

Smith said applications for the program are available at his office at Fairview Industrial Park, 540B Industrial Drive, Lewisberry.

Five Features-Five Different Winners

There were five feature events Saturday evening at Silver Spring Speedway. In addition to the regular Sportsman racing program, there were two Limited late Model feature races and a pair of Street Stock main events.

In the twenty-five lap Sportsman feature event it was John Murphy making it back to back wins at Silver Spring driving the Highlands' Tire Co. No. 3. Murphy started the feature in the eleventh position. At the drop of the green fflag it was Steve McNair moving into the lead from his second starting position. McNair maintained the front running spot until the halfway point when his No. 22 Sportsman jumped the substantial cushion allowing Murphy to take over the lead coming off of turn four.

On lap fourteen the current Stroh's Sportsman point leader Rich Eichelberger moved in the second running position. Eichelberger was able to close the gap on the leader when Murphy encountered heavy lapped traffic. After getting sideways with five laps to go, Murphy stretched his lead and took the checkered flag for the second straight week.

Rich Eichelberger continues to run off an amazing string of top finishes by finishing second. Gary Wolford turned in a fine driving performance to place third. Dwight Leib drove the A-1 Automotive, Henry's Towing No. A-1 to a fourth place finish. Dwight has been coming on strong in recent weeks and he is very optimistic about the remainder of the season. Paul Troutman was the only young driver to break the veterans strong hold on the top five. Troutman appears to be headed for his best season ever on the Stroh's Sportsman tour.

Rich Canulli finished sixth with Bob Fannasy seventh. Larry Jackson was eighth after going to the rear of the field on lap three. Jackson almost got upside down after going over a wheel entering turn three. Smokey Snellbaker was ninth in the Tanger No. 07 with Steve McNair hanging on for a top ten finish.

The first event of the night was the remaining nine laps of the Limited Late Model feature rained out the previous week. The race ended as it began with the No. 117 driven by Jeff King at the front of the pack. The win was the first of the season for King and his second career win at Silver Spring. Troy funck turned in his best finish of teh season finishing second. Mark Billet had the first of two top five finishes on the night placing third. Tony Greener brought the Fastline Racing No. 61 across the line in fourth with one time feature winner Carl Hughes fifth.

The regular twenty lap Limited Late Model feature event was highlighted by one of the night's best moves. Lap twelve had Scott Lee as the race leader. He was being pressured by defending track champion Jeff Leiphart. The third running position was held by Ed Jones. One lap later Leiphart tried a low move on the leader entering turn one. Jones moved to the top of the track and flew by both drivers as they exited turn two. Jones went on to his first feature win of the season. The second finishing position went to Leiphart. Charlie Kope closed fast for a third place finish in front of Mark Billet. Troy Funck capped a great night by rounding out the top five.
