LAP SEAT BELTS

How safe are they

by Mary Lou Bytof

Seatbelts can save lives. But sometimes lap belts used alone can maim or even kill.

Such was the case on Sunday morning, May 14-Mother's Day-when a 1986 Cadillac collided with a police cruiser on Route 15 in Franklin Township. Dauphin County Coroner Lee Rung attributed the deaths of the Cadillac's backseat passengers, Heather (8) and Michelle (12) of Union County, to their lap belts.

According to Rung, the sisters suffered "abrasions to the abdominal area where the belt was fastened, and a lot of tearing and ripping inside" due to the force of the crash.

The girls' parents, Michael and Pauline Streett, were wearing lap/shoulder belts in the front seat of their vehicle. They were treated at Harrisburg Hospital and released.

"That's a very familiar story," Debra Barclay, media director for the Center for Auto Safety (CAS) said when informed of the local accident. Lap belts are responsible for "a lot of abdominal injuries," she noted.

More than 20 years ago, auto industry research had shown that the lap/shoulder belts were far superior to lap belts alone, and that lap belts were causing internal injuries, according to CAS.

In 1968, when the Department of Transportation (DOT) mandated shoulder belts for front seats in cars, it also considered including them in the rear seats as well. However, the auto industry maintained that it would be too costly, according to CAS. Instead, DOT compromised by requiring all cars built after 1972 to have anchors for rear shoulder harnesses, which would be optional equipment, the CAS said.

In July 1986, the National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB) released the disturbing results of a limited study on lap belt injuries. Upon examining 26 serious accidents, the NTSB found that of 50 people wearing only lap belts, at least 32 would have fared better wearing only lap/shoulder belt.

"In many cases, the lap belts induced severe to fatal injuries that probably would not have occurred if the lap belts had not been worn," the study found.

"Twenty-six of the lap belt occupants sustained serious to fatal injuries in crashes in which other occupants-either unrestrained or lap/shoulder belted, and often seated in the more vulnerable front seat locations-were less seriously injured or not injured at all," the study concluded.

As a result of that conclusion, the NTSB recommended that DOT take action to require shoulder belts in the rear seats of all new passenger vehicles, and to make retrofits available for all older vehicles, according to CAS.

In addition to the NTSB's findings, a 1986 General Motors study found lap belts to be only 7-18 percent effective in preventing fatalities, as compared to lap/shoulder belts at 41 percent effectiveness, CAS reported.

Auto manufacturers are beginning to offer rear shoulder belts on some new models, and to supply retrofit kits for older models through their dealers.

Law suits and public pressure have brought about this long-overdue change.

Early last year, the Ford Motor Company lost a $3.3 million lawsuit when the rear seat lap belt in a 1985 Escort was ruled to have caused spinal injuries in a child passenger, according to an article in the May 1988 issue of Changing Times.

Following an in-depth investigation of the safety of rear lap belts by a major television news show last summer, Harbold Ford, Inc., received a number of requests for the retrofit shoulder harnesses, according to parts manager Lanney Kemble.

At that time, Kemble said he did not have the kit in stock. However, on February 23, the Ford Motor Company announced the availability of the kits to its dealers, Kemble said.

Each kit contains two manually adjustable back rear seat shoulder belts to be used in conjunction with the existing lap belts, Kemble said. Only the Taurus and Sable require the replacement of all backseat restraint equipment, he said.

The cost of the retrofit kit alone is $50 for most current domestic Ford cars, and $125 for the Taurus and Sable, he said.

Installation for the Escort, for example, is estimated to take 2.5 hours, at a cost of $77.50, Kemble said. An Escort owner will pay a total of $127.50 for the harnesses and installation.

Although numerous people have contacted him about the retrofit kits, Kemble said he hasn't installed any. "As soon as I put a price on it, they leave," he added.

"One hundred dollars is a small price to pay when you're talking about the life of your child," Barclay said.

Until DOT orders rear lap/shoulder belts to be mandatory equipment, CAS is asking consumers to follow this advice:

"If you are buying a new car, don't buy unless the car has shoulder belts. Even if they are not standard equipment or available as a manufacturer option, a dealer can install them as a dealer option just like undercoating.

If you have an older car, shop around until you find a dealer willing to install retrofit shoulder belts at a total price of no more than $150-$200.

Franklinton Man Arrested on Morals Charges

Dillsburg police last week arrested Philip H. Wolfe, 41, of Franklinton charging him with rape, attempted rape, involuntary deviant sexual intercourse, corrupting the morals of a minor and statutory rape.

The charges stem from what police allege was an ongoing situation for the past 14 years. The girl, who is now 17, told police that Wolfe along with her father, had been molesting her since age 3.

A warrant is to be issued for the girl's father on similar charges.

The incident came to police attention when on May 4th the girl called 911 to report an attempted rape. She told police that Wolfe entered her home and she ran upstairs to lock herself in the bathroom. Then, according to police, Wolfe used a pocketknife to pick the lock and allegedly threw her to the floor where they struggled for 20 minutes. There was a knock on the front door of the house, causing Wolfe to flee.

Wolfe is free on $35,000 bail awaiting trial.

Three Dillsburg teenagers were injured in this one car crash Tuesday on Mountain Road at Homewood Street.

The operator of the car, Susan Funk, 16, of Impala Drive and passengers Delane Jo McMichael, 17, of Little John Drive and Barbara Livingston, 17, of Range End Road were all taken to Harrisburg Hospital following the 10:27 a.m. crash.

McMichael was released after treatment. Funk and Livingston were admitted in good condition.

They were travelling west on Mountain Road when Funk lost control of the vehicle which then crossed the roadway, went over an embankment, crossed over Homewood Street and struck a tree.

No charges have been filed against the driver at this time, but Carroll Township police are investigating the accident.

Letter To The Editor:

On behalf of the York County Association for Retarded Citizens, I would like to thank everyone-teachers, riders, volunteers, parents and sponsors-who made this year's Bike-Hike an outstanding program. Preliminary results indicate that we have pledges in excess of $45,000.

The local area coordinators deserve special mention: Kay Miller and Joanne Blankenstein from Central York School District; Tony Hower, Richard Snyder and Clare Clark from Dallastown Area Schools; John Smith from the Dillsburg Lion's Club; Stephanie Lesser from Eastern York School District; Ruth Duncan and George Hoover from Northeastern School District; Karen Baltzer, Susan Meisenhelter, Mary Jane Sechrist, Tammy Grove, Jackie Zeiler, and Nancy Weber from South Eastern School District; John Dickert from Spring Grove Area School District; John Waybright from West York Area School District; Kathy Thomas and Max Frey from York City Schools; and Sister Dominica LoBianco from York Catholic High School. Without these dedicated people the event could not succeed. Thanks to their organizational skills and public awareness efforts, Bike-Hike has gone beyond being solely a fund raising event for a good cause and has become a much-anticipated rite of Spring!

Each rider and his or her sponsors should understand how important these funds are to the people we serve. The success of this year's Bike-Hike will allow us to continue to improve our programs for mentally retarded citizens and their families, such as Client and Family Services, Camp Pennwood, the After School Program, and to provide more individual assistance to those in need.

Thanks again everyone!

Dear Editor,

Last week was Memorial Day. It was so nice to see those small flags flying along our way. So often this day is forgotten for its real meaning-to pay respect and honor to those who gave, and are giving, so much for our freedom. God bless them all! Let's keep those flags flying! Thanks to those who had the idea and developed it!

Governor's Model Child Care Center Opens

As part of the solution to the problem of finding quality child care, Gov. Robert P. Casey has dedicated the first governor's model child care center for children of Commonwealth employees.

During the center's dedication ceremony, Gov. Robert P. Casey called on private employers to follow the state's lead.

"The need for quality day care in the Commonwealth is not only imperative for working parents but for the state's economic growth as well," Gov. Casey said. "We call the center a model because our intention is to spread the idea of work-site child care beyond state government to Pennsylvania private employers."

"The need for such centers is obvious. Any working parent who has searched for child care knows there is a crisis in children's services that threatens to keep thousands of Pennsylvania workers from the job market."

The center, located in the state Labor and Industry Building, offers care for children six months to five years old whose parents work for the Commonwealth. Prices are competitive with tuition charge at child care centers elsewhere in the area. The center opened March 6.

ALL MY CHILDREN: Ross watched Palmer secretly pay off Trevor who had orchestrated the Marissa/Jeremy capture. Lanie overheard Marissa telling Palmer that Trevor implied he was going to blackmail her. Marissa later confided her secret to Jeremy. David had a twin sister named Elisha who was swept down a river while Marissa tried to escape from the enemy. Dixie's doctor agreed to do Adam a "favor" in return for a contribution to research: he warned her she can't have sex until after the baby's birth. He also announced she'll have a boy. Natalie was suspended after handing out the wrong medicine at the hospital. Tad realized he had fallen in love with Dixie. Wait To See: Palmer gets enmeshed in one plot too many.

ANOTHER WORLD: Jamie rejected Vicky's advances. Donna was shattered at the news that Nicole was the killer. Jamie told Stacey it's possible Steven's not his son. Jake told Zack he wants to fight for custody of Steven. Felicia assured Lucas that Lisa is her niece; Felicia later learned that the daughter she had is still alive. Vicky rushed Mikey to the hospital after a minor accident. John, who was there with a cut hand, tended to the boy in the Emergency Room. Wait To See: Lucas has another shocker for Felicia.

AS THE WORLD TURNS: Shannon learned she was pregnant with Glenn's child. John told Lucinda he can't put stitches on Lily's scar for at least six months. Shannon let Duncan assume she and Mark were lovers. Jeff Dolan joined the Oakdale police force as a rookie. He won't be coming back after the tour to California. Wait To See: Shannon faces a crucial decision.

Brooke worried that Ridge might turn against her if Caroline told him the truth about the letter she held back. Sally told Clarke he could work under the name, Beau Rivage, for Spectra without endangering his position with the Forresters. Macy was pleased that Mick liked Donna as a model, but hoped he didn't like her "too much." Wait To See: Caroline acts to stop Brooke's marriage to Ridge.

DALLAS: On hiatus

Jericho warned Saul about the relationship: Marcus could tell her about Saul's hidden past. Justin brought the baby back from Kiriakis' house, only to have Arjelica take the child away again. Cal admitted to the press he and Diana were never married. Wait To See: Marcus' flashbacks take on terrifying substance.

Blake pretended that she and Philip had broken up. Wait To See: Alan still has a few plays to play out.

KNOTS LANDING: On hiatus

LOVING: Jeff gave Trisha the villa as a wedding gift right after the ceremony. At the wedding reception, Jeff received a strange message and rushed out. Trucker snuck into Trisha's bedroom and told her he loved her and was wrong to let her go. Trisha told Trucker she intended to file for an annulment. Clay reported Trucker as a violator of his probation for having gone chasing after Trisha in Italy on a forged passport. He also succeeded in pushing Jack out of Alden Enterprises. Later, he persuaded a somewhat reluctant Ava that she really felt as close to him as he did to her. Wait To See: Jeff's paralysis leaves Trisha in an emotional trap.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE: Austin dug his way out of the grave. Meanwhile, Bo was released and went home. Russell offered Max the use of the casino for a photo shoot as a favor to Spring. In the tape room, a hand with a ring on it triggered the sprinkler system. Gabrielle was upset at having Brenda care for baby Rick, but Michael insisted she was good for the child. Pike felt Sarah hadn't given her the full story about Austin. Asa insisted Pike go back to Texas. Wait To See: Sarah faces a new threat from Austin.

SANTA BARBARA: On her honeymoon trip with Mason, Julia developed a dangerous fever, but was saved by a strange woman conducting a curious ritual around her. Later, Mason found a note in the sand saying Mary was still watching over him. Greg hoped C.C. wouldn't hurt Megan again. Ric considered ways of making money with Sandra's clairvoyance. Laura told Michael she didn't know Leo dealt drugs when she had an affair with him, and that she blamed Michael for Jamie's death because it was easier than taking the blame herself. Gina arranged for Laskin to hear Cassie sing. Wait To See: Rafael faces a desperate moment of truth.

YOUNG & THE RESTLESS: Looking through George's medical file, Carl learned he was impotent. With Nina, the baby, Jill, Kay, Rex and Cricket at his bedside, Phil died of the injuries he sustained when he crashed his car. Jill was determined to take charge of Philip's trust for his son and keep Nina out of it. Cassie told her mysterious phone "friend" she'd pushed Paul too far and now had to make amends. Victor worried that Leanna could jeopardize his plans to take revenge on Jack. Wait To See: The house that Jack tried to build could come tumbling down sooner than anyone planned.

DEAR DEX

by Dexter Dyer

DEAR DEX:

I'm a 47-year-old man, and have been married since I was 20. My wife and I had a great marriage for many years. One summer while at our summer home, my wife had taken our boat out in the lake, and due to a gas leak, the boat ignited, leaving my wife paralyzed and facing many years of reconstructive surgery from the burns. She is at home with me, and I've taken care of her all these years. I love her very much and will continue to always take care of her, although there are certain needs that I have that my wife can no longer fulfill. Sex is impossible for us. I miss that closeness that we can no longer have. I know I would be breaking my vows to her if I have an affair on the side. I promised her when we married I would be faithful to her 'til death do us part. But we didn't know what cruel future was in store for us. Any advice?

UNHAPPY

DEAR UNHAPPY:

I am not the proper person to consult on this matter at all. I think you should consult with your minister, priest or rabbi. You obviously need some spiritual guidance on this, as well as some good practical advice. Good luck.

DEAR DEX:

I have a little problem. My boyfriend and I broke up, and I'm carrying his baby. He claims the baby isn't his. He is the only guy I have been to bed with. When we were together, he told me he would like to have a baby with me. So, indeed, we went to bed and now I'm pregnant. Now, he thinks that I got pregnant from somebody else. I was not seeing anybody else and haven't since being with him. What should I do to convince him that the baby I'm carrying is his? I am so confused, and don't know what to do now. Please help me.

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED:

It sounds to me as if he's trying to avoid being held financially responsible. The only way to pursue this is through legal channels. You must get a lawyer to represent you and see to it that the father of the child lives up to his legal responsibilities. Should your ex-boyfriend continue to deny paternity, the court could very well order a paternity test, which would be in your favor.

Before you do consult an attorney, try one more time to reason with him. Let him know that you are prepared to take these steps to protect yourself and the baby. Perhaps he will relent and do what's right after all. If not, you will have no choice but to do what must be done.

DEAR DIANE

by Diane Van Arsdale

DEAR DIANE:

The time has come for adoptees, birth parents and adoptive parents to get together. Somebody does care and help is available. Adoptive parents, help your child, try to understand — if they want to search for their natural birth parents, support them in their efforts, encourage them and help them. Adoptees need to know their roots and the part of their life that is missing. Birth parents feel guilty because they had or were forced to give up their child away, but they NEVER forgot them. There is a worldwide reunion registry available. For details, simply send a long double stamped, self addressed stamped envelope to: United States Adoption Family and Friends Reunion Registry, 1017 Abbott Street, Albert Lea, Minn. 56007.

This agency has had great success in reuniting people from their registry. This agency also works in cooperation with another agency that has adoption sheets and information about adoption and how to start and complete your own search.

It certainly helped me find my birth mother.

A. Smith

DEAR READERS:

Thank you all for your letters concerning this issue. Many of you wrote with the above information, but I felt this one really expressed the emotions involved quite well. Good luck to all of you who decide to take up this search.

DEAR DIANE:

I am 20 years old. I have been married for a year. My husband is 23. We've always had a good and honest relationship, except one thing. He hides dirty magazines from me and he always wants to rent porno films. I told him I don't find them interesting and I don't want them in my home. We have a good sex life, so is this normal for him to act this way, or is there something wrong with me?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED:

It could very well be that your husband has some deep-rooted hang-ups about sex and needs those magazines and films to somehow get rid of his inhibitions. The only way to find out if this is the case is for him to get some counseling. However, since what he's doing is really harmless, I don't really see the point in making an issue over it. At least he's confining his activities to your home.

Of course, if you feel uncomfortable viewing the films when he asks, you should not have to. Just let him know that it does nothing for you, and I'm sure he will understand.

Paint & Household by Bob D'Angelo

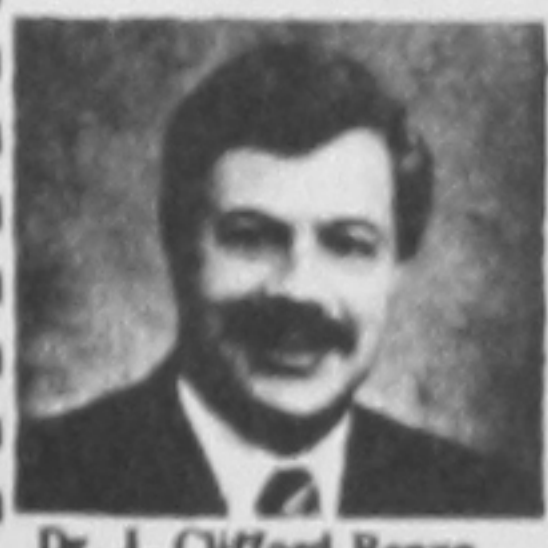

Q. I recently had new casement windows put in my living room. I would like to paint them myself; however, I am somewhat apprehensive, being unaccustomed to painting. B.T., Oyster Bay, N.Y.

Assuming the carpenter did a satisfactory job, the nails should have been countersunk finishing nails. They generally don't fill holes, so you'll have to do it yourself. Use plastic wood or another wood putty product to fill the holes. Plastic wood dries rapidly so you can soon sand it clean. Sand the entire window lightly going with the grain. You want to round the edges of the wood ever so slightly to get better paint adhesion. Incidentally, if you're going to stain and varnish instead of paint, I suggest you don't fill with plastic filler as it will not absorb stain. Instead, use sawdust or glue. Then when you stain, the sawdust will take a stain, making the holes more inconspicuous. In your case, you stated that you wanted to paint. I recently did a similar job and found when I was running out of primer, I sent my helper for my favorite brand and when she returned she handed me a can of "Long Island Paint" primer, stating that's all they carried. I must admit you can teach old dogs new tricks. The primer had the most opacity of any other primer I had ever used.

Sand lightly between coats and paint with an oil/alkyd base paint. Semi-gloss is the most common finish. Start from the top and when you've finished a particular section, lightly run the brush from end to end. That will give it a smooth pristine finish.

Q. I am planning to paint my living room and dining room shortly. A friend suggested I use an eggshell finish. What exactly is an eggshell finish? J.P., Sands Point, N.Y.

An eggshell finish is a texture that paint manufacturers offer that gives the homeowner the beauty of a flat paint finish yet the practicality in that it can be scrubbed clean. It has a very slight lustre similar to the shell of an egg, hence the name eggshell finish.

Hager and Eichelberger win Twin-Twenties at Silver Spring

The Memorial holiday weekend had twin-twenties for the Stroh's Sportsman on tap at Silver Spring Speedway. Danny Hager was the victor of the first twenty lap event and Rich Eichelberger took the nightcap after starting in the seventeenth position.

Danny Hager won his first feature of the season in his Bitner MotorSports No. 12. Hager started the race in the sixth position and had worked his way into the runner-up spot in five laps. A restart two laps later put Hager on the rear bumper of the race leader Jeremy Trout. At the drop of the green flag, Hager ducked under Trout and into the lead.

Hager was never threatened as he cruised under the checkered flag in front of Dwight Leib who registered his second straight second place finish. The third finishing position went to Smokey Snellbaker with Jeremy Trout holding on to the fourth finishing spot. Leroy Martin crossed the line fifth for his best finish of the season. Fourteen cars finished on the lead lap and those cars were inverted for the start of the second twenty lap feature.

Rich Eichelberger was not one of the top fourteen finishers in the first feature, he was sidelined after being involved in an accident. That put the current Stroh's Sportsman Series point leader seventeenth on the starting grid. On a track that was dry and slick it seemed that winning the twenty lap feature from far back in the field would be a tall order. Eichelberger made it look easy. Normally Ike has the No. 47 up against the outside wall but in this race everyone else was running the cushion so Eichelberger drove around the bottom and into the lead on lap fourteen. The win was Eichelberger's second of the season. In winners circle, Eichelberger stated that he felt fast enough to win the first feature but was sidelined due to the crash.

Bobby Allen Scores 35th Grove Victory

The World of Outlaws concluded their spring swing through Pennsylvania Friday night at Williams Grove Speedway and Bobby Allen won the 30-lap Copenhagen-Skoal Sprint car feature.

With the track hard and black, knowledgeable Sprint car observers knew they could not count out the 45-year-old veteran who has always been a master of such surfaces. Allen started fifth in the 24-car field and took the lead on the 25th lap following a duel with Jeff Swindell and Bobby Davis. Once in front Allen in his own #1A pulled away for his 35th career victory at Williams Grove Speedway.

Allen earned $5000 for his performance. "I was smiling when I took the lead, but I was smiling even more when Wolfgang dropped out," Allen said in victory lane. Doug Wolfgang, America's top-ranked Sprint car driver, was sidelined with mechanical problems after coming from 10th to 5th in the first three laps.

Jeff Swindell started on the pole in the Payless Hardware and Rockery #11X and led the first four laps before Bobby Davis took over on lap five. Swindell was back in front the next time around and managed to hold off the challenge of Davis until Allen claimed second on the 20th lap.

With Allen using the bottom of the track to draw alongside Swindell, the leader ducked to the inside in turn one to attempt to take Allen's lane away. The crafty veteran went straight to the middle and drove by Swindell on the backstretch.

Swindell settled for second with Bobby Davis in the Casey Luna Ford #10 third, Dave Blaney in the Mica Shop 7C fourth and Mark Kinser in Karl Kinser's #51 fifth.

Fred Rahmer, who started 13th, turned in a strong performance in the Lawrence #99 to finish sixth ahead of Keith Kauffman, Tim, Green, Donnie Kreitz and Jac Haudenschild.

Heats were won by Andy Hillenburg, Cris Eash, Stevie Smith and Kenny Adams.

Swindell won the Fram Dash and Kauffman copped the B-Main.

Swindell outqualified the 41-car field with a lap of 19.81 in time trials.

The World of Outlaws return to Williams Grove with a two-day program on July 27 and 28.

Sprints & Limited Sprints

A dual card program of Sprint car racing is on tap this Friday, June 9, at Williams Grove Speedway beginning at 8:00.

The Busch Sprint car point race has developed into a battle between the Smith family. Entering the month of June Stevie Smith was leading his father, Steve Smith, in the Busch point race. Although the Smiths have combined for nearly 40 feature event victories at Williams Grove over the years, both are seeking their first track championship.

Stevie, who drives the Hamilton GMC #77, was the first driver to score two feature victories here this year. Steve Smith, with 25 career victories at Williams Grove, is still seeking his first '89 triumph. He drives the Leiby's Mobile Homes #19.

Competition once again has been intense at Williams Grove where 23 different drivers won features last year. After ten races this season, the Grove had nine different winners.

Two drivers who have been consistently fast but have not been able to win are Kenny Adams and Fred Rahmer, currently third and fourth respectively in the Busch point series. Adams is the defending Lincoln speedway champion and Rahmer is the current point leader at Port Royal.

Both Smiths, Adams, Rahmer, defending Busch champ Steve Stambaugh and former champion Jim Nace are among the drivers expected to be in competition this week as the Sprint car racers compete in qualifying races and a 25-lap feature which pays $2500 to win.

The Limited Sprint car division returns to Williams Grove this week. Former feature winners Bob Beidelman and Bobby Essick are expected to be in the field of Limited Sprints. The Limited Sprints are sanctioned by the KARS organization.

Coming up on Friday evening, June 16, Williams Grove Speedway will host the Mitch Smith Memorial for Sprint cars.

SEAT BELT POSITIONING

It can make a difference when in an accident

by Mary Lou Byto

The rear seat lap belt is a potential danger if it's not properly positioned and adjusted on the passenger, according to James Taylor, M.D., director of the emergency department at Harrisburg Hospital.

In an accident, abdominal injuries are most likely to occur among lap belt wearers whose belts are improperly positioned, he says. Children are especially vulnerable to lap belt induced injuries when they nap, squirm in their seats, or loosen the belts, he adds.

The proper position for the lap belt is across the pelvic bone, approximately two to four inches below the waist, resting against the upper thighs. "The pelvic bone is very strong," he explains. The combination lap/shoulder belts, however, offer the best protection in a crash, Taylor says.

If no lap/shoulder belts are available in the backseat, Taylor recommends that passengers correctly fasten their lap belts.

"Back seat passengers definitely fare better wearing a lap belt than no belt at all," Taylor says.

A brochure distributed by the American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons says that injuries due to seat belts are "rare situations". Either the belts are worn wrong, or the crashes were so severe that the passengers would have sustained more injuries if unbelted, it says.

According to the brochure, an automobile accident involves two collisions. The first occurs when a car strikes an object. The second involves the collision of a passenger against the interior of the vehicle, or through ejection from the vehicle. Ejection is the most common cause of death in automobile accidents, and occurs 10 times more often to unrestrained occupants, the brochure says.

In a 30 mile-an-hour crash, an unbelted backseat passenger will strike the rear of the front seat with a force equal to that of falling from a three story building," Taylor relates.

Other than the Street girls, the emergency staff has rarely seen lap belt induced injuries, the doctor says.

Eighty-nine percent of all seriously injured traffic accident victims treated in the Harrisburg Hospital emergency room were not wearing any belts at the time of the accident, Taylor says.

Ninety-three percent of the fatalities also were not restrained, he added.

For maximum protection, the shoulder harness/lap belts also must be properly positioned. The harness goes over the left shoulder, angles downward across the sternum (in the center of the chest), and attaches near the right hip, Taylor explains. The lap portion rests across the pelvis.

The harness should be as close to the chest as possible, the doctor says.

"The passenger should be able to lean forward, yet feel the tightness of the strap," he explains. "Don't slouch," he warns.

Lap Belts

While you get shoulder belts for your car's rear seat, CAS recommends that you wear lap belts in the rear seat of large vehicles or ones with four doors where occupants are more readily ejected in crashes. If you have a small car with only two doors where ejection is less likely, CAS cannot recommend wearing a rear lap belt.

You should make every effort to get shoulder belts for the rear seat as soon as possible and to avoid carrying rear seat passengers in the meantime."

According to the Changing Times article, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said that most new cars, light trucks, and utility vehicles will be equipped with lap-and-shoulder belts in the back seat by 1990.

The meeting will be held in the Dover Township Fire Hall, Carlisle Road, Weigelstown, Pa. on Wednesday, June 28, 1989 at 7 p.m.

The Commissioners and Township officials, in building upon a successful meeting, in Hallam Borough on April 26, in which over 60 participants attended, have agreed to adopt the same informal format which provided question and answer opportunities for officials and citizens concerned about government programs and services. The agenda for the Dover Township meeting will be as follows:

7:00 p.m.-Welcome and Introductions
7:15 p.m. - County Commissioners' Agenda
8:00 p.m.- Open Question and Answer Session
9:00 p.m.- Adjournment

Commissioner Hovis, in announcing the continuation of the County-wide meetings, said, "We are fulfilling a campaign promise to bring County government closer to the people of York County and I hope they will respond by attending and participating in these opportunities to be seen and heard on local and County government issues and concerns." Two more 1989 meetings will be held this year. Dates, time and locations will be determined and announced later.

Big Fires Start Small

The National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) has announced the theme for Fire Protection Week 1989, to be held October 8-14: "Big Fires Start Small: Keep matches and lighters in the right hands."

"The problem of children playing with fire has long challenged the fire protection community," says NFPA President Robert W. Grant. "With that in mind, we selected a theme which emphasizes the importance of early education to the dangers of matches and lighters."

Child fireplay is the leading cause of fire deaths among the very young, killing three of every ten preschool children who die in residential fires, and the sixth leading cause of civilian fire deaths.

Many children are faced with the temptation to play with fire every day. "Quite frankly, parents who leave matches and lighters within a child's reach are courting tragedy," Mr. Grant says. "Very young children do not have the capacity to understand the consequences of striking a match or lighter, and many older children who do understand, have no idea how quickly a fire can grow out of control."

Educating adults as well as children-beginning at a young age-is an important step in this battle. But it doesn't end there. Intervention is also vital. Matches, lighters and other heat sources MUST be kept out of the reach of children.

Fire Prevention Week activities will focus on these and other firesafety behaviors with fire departments throughout the country participating in the annual event.

Fire Prevention Week was first proclaimed by President Warren G. Harding in 1922 to commemorate the Great Chicago Fire of 1871. The Chicago Fire killed 250 people, left 100,000 homeless and destroyed more than 17,400 building. The NFPA is sponsoring Fire Prevention Week with the support of the fire service, schools and civic organizations across the United States, drawing public attention to the need for fire prevention education.

Established in 1896, the NFPA is an international nonprofit association with nearly 50,000 members worldwide.

Fish For Free, June 10 and 11

The Pennsylvania Fish Commission has invited everyone to fish for free June 10 and 11. This means that all would-be fishermen and women can fish anywhere in Pennsylvania without a license on that weekend. Fish-for-Free Days are part of National Fishing Week, June 5-11, and both have been recognized by Governor Casey in a proclamation signed on June 2.

Pennsylvania was the second state in thenation to host such an event, the first held in 1984. This year marks the first time the event has been stretched to two days, which should give nearly everyone, resident and nonresident alike, an opportunity to try fishing in Pennsylvania. Although the license fee has been lifted, all anglers must abide by the rules and regulations governing the sport. For a free copy of the 1989 Summary of Fishing Regulations, write the Pennsylvania Fish Commission, Publications Section, P.O. Box 1673, Harrisburg, Pa. 17105-1673.

News releases received by Monday for this section will appear in that weeks edition of the Banner.

Thrift Shop to Close

Warrington Neighbors Women's Club will close their Thrift Shop on June 24, 1989. The reason for closing the shop is the growth and popularity of yard and garage sales in the area.

The Thrift Shop has been maintained by members of the club for 14 years. The space for the shop has been donated by Mrs. Helen Drugan, a past president of the club.

The Thrift Shop, located 1/4 mile north of Rossville on route 177, will be open on Fridays from 12 to 4 and Saturdays from 10 to 4 through June 30. Since all items will be sold, the prices will be drastically reduced.

A rummage sale is being planned for the fall, so all members and friends are urged to collect fall and winter garments as well as household items.

Murphy Wins Sportsman Main-Late Models on Hold at Silver Spring

Two weeks before the 1989 season, John Murphy did not expect to be doing much racing this year. His long time car owner Zane Highlands had sold out and John expected to be out of town frequently. Murphy then discovered that he would still be in the Harrisburg area and took a ride in the Joe Kuhn No. 2 which he drove to a runner-up finish the second week of the season. The next development came when Highlands' retirement as a car owner lasted just three weeks. Zane missed the action and began looking for a car. Jim Strausbaugh just happened to have a frame ready to go and six weeks ago the familiar Highlands' Tire Co. blue No. 3 was back on the scene.

The feature race looked as though it might never get going when there were two false starts. On the initial green flag, the Frankie Herr machine drifted to a halt on the front straight. The next try brought out the yellow flag when Dwight Leib blew a right front tire. It was a tough break for Leib who was flying in his heat race and easily won that event. There were a couple more restarts and a red flag was displayed again it was green flag racing the remainder of the twenty five lap event.

Early race leader Jim Shuttlesworth was back into the lead at the drop of the green and Murphy was working his way up through traffic from his twelfth starting position. Billy Crawford was chasing Shuttlesworth until Murphy got by him on lap sixteen. With five laps to go Murphy used an inside move coming out of turn four to get by the leader. The win was worth $1500.00 for Murphy with the additional sponsorship of the Champion Spark Plug Co. It was Murphy's 47th career win at Silver Spring.

One of the evening's best races was the Sportsman consi which had Smokey Snellbaker battling Larry Jackson. Jackson won that event but in the feature it was a different story. Smokey and Jackson seemed to be racing against each other all night long when they hooked up in a race long battle in the feature also. Moving up through traffic together, only one position separated the two drivers the entire twenty-five lap distance. Towards the end of the race, Smokey came on strong getting by Shuttlesworth with two laps to go to gain runner-up honors. A few more laps and Murphy would have had his hands full also.

It was quite a night for the Highlands with Jim Shuttlesworth leading the race for the first twenty laps. Highlands' Tire Co. is a sponsor of the No. 9 along with Tim Hake the proprietor of Bob's Refrigeration Service. Shuttlesworth is in his first year of Sportsman racing after many successful seasons of Late Model competition. After weeks of frustration over the cars performance, Shuttlesworth continued to work hard to find the answers that would enable him to get around the corners.
